Allen, chairman of Long's state highway commission, polled upward of a 40,000 majority in the city of New Orleans and returns from many rural districts gave Allen further advantage.

May Try To Shift Guilt In Judd Case

Defense Lawyer Hints at Accomplice for Accused Woman in Murders

Phoenix, Ariz. —(AP)—A hint of producing an accomplice, or of shifting the burden of guilt was given by defense counsel today in the selection of jurors who will decide the fate of Winnie Ruth Judd.

The shadow of another person in the case appeared shortly after court convened for the second day of the trial of the pale faced, 26-year old woman for the slaying last October of Agnes Annie LeRoi, her friend. She also is charged with murder of Miss Hedvig Samuelson. This indictment is to come up later.

ALSO IN FAVOR OF REVAMPING ATHLETIC BODY

Would Put U. W. "Athletic Teams on Equal Footing" With Others

Madison —(AP)—The board of regents at the University of Wisconsin today approved the appointment of Irwin Uteritz as director of intercollegiate athletics and accepted the resignations of George Little, director of athletics, and Glenn Thistell, head football coach.

While the board was taking its action, the state assembly was passing two resolutions, one asking that Mr. Little be retained and the other calling for a reorganization of the athletic council.

A legislative special committee which investigated the athletic department recommended adoption of the resolution, introduced by Assemblyman Walter Kupiz, Milwaukee.

The assembly also adopted a joint resolution recommending a reorganization of the athletic council which administers the athletic policies at the school. This measure was submitted by the special committee.

In a report filed in both the senate and assembly the committee said its investigation revealed that "there is sufficient ground for a reorganization of the athletic department."

The committee's report also said the board of regents to make a thorough investigation of athletic activities, particularly with reference to the athletic council, administration, coaching, business management, publicity and tickets.

Peruvians In Panic; Quake Rocks Cities

The newspaper El Comercio reported one person killed in the crumbling of a house at Huacho. The shock was most severe at Huauraz and Huacho and was felt strongly also at Pisco, Canete, Ica and other towns.

The shock, which citizens said was the most severe since 1901, followed a lesser one earlier in the day. The second occurred at 9:30 p. m. on a hot summer night. It was preceded by a hollow, underground rumbling which caused the first fright among the people, even though they are accustomed to earthquakes and the west coast of Peru is frequently shaken.

Walls of buildings cracked, cornices fell, roofs crumbled and the streets rolled as if in waves. They were soon filled with careening automobiles, out of the drivers' control in the unsteadiness of the pavements underneath.

Simultaneously the lights in the city went out. The darkness was filled with the hysterical screams of thousands who fled in panic from homes, churches and theatres into the unsteady streets and open squares. The crash of breaking glass added to the tumult.

Some women fainted. Others, panicked by the darkness, fled from the erratic path of taxicabs and automobiles, flung here and there by the swaying of the earth. Most of those treated at the first aid stations which were hurriedly set up were found to be suffering from heart attacks and nervous shock.

There were 58 of these cases up to midnight. Two of the sufferers were taken to hospitals and their condition was reported to be serious.

A policeman and three other persons were hurt by falling cornices and bricks.

Telephone reports from Callao said much the same conditions prevailed there.

A number of old dwellings, dating from the rebuilding of the city after it was destroyed by a quake in 1746, were badly damaged. The old church of San Francisco, noted for its architecture, also suffered damage. Several art windows in the hall of the chamber of deputies fell and crashed. Even walls of new buildings were cracked.

Testimony Regarding Nature and Contents of Telegram O. K., Claim

Washington —(AP)—Secretary Stimson stood firmly today in his refusal to submit publicly to the senate finance committee a telegram from the American legation at Bogota dealing with Colombian loans and the Barco concession.

Replying to a resolution by the committee asking for a telegram dated June 19 from American Minister Caffery to the state department, the secretary reaffirmed his willingness to submit the document in executive session.

He said it would not be in the interests of the United States in its foreign relations to publish the telegram itself.

The secretary in his letter to Chairman Smoot said that Assistant Secretary White in his testimony had stated correctly the substance of the telegram as to the Barco concession.

"I have received the request of the senate finance committee for a telegram dated June 19, 1931," the secretary replied to Smoot. "Mr. White's testimony stated correctly the substance of this telegram as to the Barco concession."

"The telegram is available for examination," he said, "if they desire to check the accuracy of Mr. White's testimony. It would not be in the interests of the United States in its foreign relations to publish the telegram itself."

Motion by Couzens
The committee had agreed unanimously to a motion by Senator Couzens, requesting the telegram.

The committee's action was at an executive session in which a letter from the secretary of state transmitting some of the correspondence regarding loans to Colombia had been considered.

Stimson submitted portions of four communications between the state department and the American legation in Colombia regarding loans made to that country by the national city company.

Testimony before the committee has shown that the National City company forwarded the last $4,000,000 quota of a loan, contracted for by Colombia the year before, ten days after that government restored the Barco oil concession to the Mellon owned Gulf Oil company and other American interests.

The Couzens motion, which was seconded by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, follows:

"I move in view of the fact that the communication received from the secretary of state makes no reference to the Barco concession in the telegram of June 19 that he is requested to furnish to this committee the telegram which confirms Assistant Secretary White's testimony given before the committee in respect to the Barco concession."

White testified that among the reasons mentioned by President Oliza of Colombia for the loan to be made was that he had restored the oil concession.

START MOVE TO RECALL SEN. PHILIP NELSON

Superior —(AP)—A movement to recall Senator Philip E. Nelson, Maple, was started last night at a meeting of the cooperative club, a recently organized group catering to labor interests. The club has about 150 members.

Arnold J. Rynn, secretary, said "the club feels that Nelson does not represent the laboring people, but quite the contrary is using his office to look after the interests of big business." He added that Nelson's opposition to the administration's $17,000,000 relief bill met the club's "stern disapproval."

Rynn said farmer and labor organizations would be sounded for support for the recall movement.

Relief Workers Rushed To Mississippi Flooded Districts

ACT TO PREVENT DISEASE AMONG PEOPLE OF AREA

Measures Also Taken to Provide Shelter and Food for Refugees

Glendora, Miss. —(P)—The coast guard and National Red Cross worked together today to bring relief to the flooded swept Mississippi delta and its thousands of refugees.

While a squad of Red Cross workers moved swiftly to alleviate suffering among the homeless and enforce public health measures in refugee centers, coast guard boats and crews, hurried here from the Great Lakes and gulf stations, gave insurance to marooned householders in the water-bound back country.

Wholesome half-flooded towns of six counties where farm families sought comparative safety after seeing their homes inundated from breaks in the delta levee, systems, were ordered by the Red Cross and were proceeding rapidly today under the direction of county health officers. Scores of resident physicians cooperated in the work.

Robert E. Bondy of Washington, Red Cross disaster relief director, told a conference of relief workers that the same policy of relief the National Red Cross has followed in other disasters will be pursued in flooded Mississippi. "We do not propose to let anybody die, freeze or go hungry."

Menace Remains Although these organized relief measures gave a brighter outlook in the delta, the swollen Tallahatchie, Yazoo and tributary streams, continued to offer the menace of additional damage with a further spread of the floods which have already covered an estimated 200-mile strip in more than six counties and affected some 45,000 persons.

Belzoni, Humphreys-co. seat, had a desperate fight on its hands with the Yazoo flowing over weakened levees in front and backwaters covering a fourth of the town from behind.

A break-up of the Island lakes levee north of Marks, Miss., released a new wall over water over Tallahatchie and Sunflower-rivers.

A rise in the Mississippi river near Vicksburg offered a new threat in Issaquena, Sharkey and Yazoo-co.

North Louisiana's floods, which had driven several hundred from their homes along the Ouachita and Red rivers, appeared little changed today, but higher stages on those rivers are forecast.

DEATH TOLL GROWS IN KENTUCKY FEUD

Fifth Victim Dies from Injuries in New Salem Churchyard Battle

London, Ky. —(P)—Kentucky's worst gun battle in recent history, from the standpoint of lives lost, was written into the records today. The toll of the feud shooting in the New Salem churchyard was brought to five with the death last night of "Little Henry" Johnson.

The other victims were "Big Henry" and Earl Johnson, brothers who were cousins of the man who died last night, and Forrest and Homer Cook, brothers who were neighbors of the Johnsons. They were slain Saturday in the feud outbreak in which "Little Henry" was mortally wounded by a stray bullet.

Willie Johnson, brother of "Big Henry" and Earl, was the only member of the two families present who survived. He was wounded in the arm. Willie was the cause of it all, according to the Crooks, who accused him of wronging their 17-year-old sister Ruby.

The girl, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Will Settles, near Connorsville, Ind., said she and Willie Johnson were principals in a mock wedding which she thought was legally solemnized. Sheriff W. H. Steele said no charge would be placed against Willie unless further investigation revealed he took part in the shooting.

Kentucky's worst gun battle during the twentieth century history was the Clayhole election shooting in Breathitt-co. in 1921 in which four men were killed and 17 wounded. Four men were killed and five wounded in the battle of Evans in Harlan-co. last May, arising from mine labor troubles. These three shootings, the New Salem, Clayhole and Evans battles, occurred in Kentucky mountain districts.

BLAME CARPENTERS FOR BUILDING DELAY

Chicago —(P)—Officials of Lake Forest, an exclusive north shore suburb, charge that unreasonable demands of a carpenter's union have blocked a $42,000 building program authorized by the city council to aid the unemployed.

The program was ordered abandoned by Mayor A. D. Farwell, who said Max Baade of Waukegan, business manager of the union, refused to let the men work for less than the union scale of $13 a day.

The council had authorized a scale of $11 an hour for skilled labor and 50 cents an hour for unskilled workers.

SPEAKER SAYS FASCISM HAS HELPED ITALY

Professor Credits Movement With Building Strong Nation

Credit for the transformation of a weak and wobbling government into a powerful organization was given to the Fascist movement in Italy by Dr. H. A. Weston, language professor at Lawrence college, in an address on the origin, progress and results of Fascism at Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon.

Whether Fascism can live after the death of Mussolini, and whether a new leader will arise to take his place, Fascism has accomplished a great many good things, Dr. Weston declared. Streets are cleaner, there are no street disorders, no disregard of law such as exists today in Chicago and New York, no labor troubles such as strikes and lockouts, the currency is stable, agriculture is encouraged, and the church and state question is at least temporarily quiet. There is still a great deal of unemployment, but not as much as there is in the United States, England or Germany. An attempt is being made to make Italy self-sustaining, and with this in view farmers have been challenged to engage in a great "battle of wheat."

What will happen when Mussolini is no longer head of the government is a moot question, he felt, as there is no way of determining how much latent dissatisfaction exists, because objectors now, if there are any, are afraid to talk. Another problem is whether or not a new leader could hold the Fascist together as Mussolini has done, and check the rise of other factions.

Issue Evaded Although the treaty of 1920 between the church and state made the pope an independent sovereign, the real issue, said the speaker, was evaded. The control of education is still an unsolved question—the state believes education should be under the control of the government, and the church maintains religion is not only a matter of sacraments, but of daily living. The church emphasizes the importance of the individual, while with the state the individual is of less importance than the government, which brings about an irreconcilable conflict.

Then there is always the possibility of external friction, particularly with France, Dr. Weston pointed out. There are many irritations between the two countries, especially the navy question, territorial jealousies, and the suspicion existing in Italy that the French are responsible for some of the attacks upon the life of Mussolini.

Dr. Weston explained the origin of the movement. During the period of hard times after the armistice, when there was a heavy debt, depreciation of currency, unemployment, high prices, naturally a social and political unrest was born, especially in the industrial centers of the north.

Labor Sympathetic The laborer was sympathetic with the red flag movement, while the soldiers returning from wars were opposed to it. The laborers placed the blame for poor conditions on the war and all those who fought it. Thus the friction between the war veterans and the laborers resulted in two opposing parties, and brought on what was close to a state of civil war. Conservatives who were afraid of communism financed the Fascist movement, and after some bloody, barbarous fighting between the two factions, the Fascists emerged an organized party.

Though they were nothing more than a well organized minority, the group had ideas and set out to accomplish them. They became established on a basis of strict discipline, and issued a strong emotional appeal, especially to the youth of the land, who could be easily inflamed with talk about the glories of antiquity and the creation of a new Rome. "A new mistress of the universe," they had not platform, ideals or standards, and prided themselves on the fact that this made for flexibility in government. Because they were guided by no dogma, they could switch from one side of a question to another overnight.

Before the regime of Fascism, no party held a majority in Parliament, and when one faction got into power the hatred was so intense that all other parties would combine to throw it over. This brought about a constant rise and fall of governments, there being as many as eight in one year. When the Fascist became organized, they demanded a share in the government, as a party, and when this was refused, they usurped the entire government, in their famous "march on Rome" in 1922, when 50,000 black shirts marched to Rome and took possession of the government.

Mussolini The king invited Mussolini to become prime minister, and from then on he has been in complete control, under the official title "head of the government."

One of the first things Mussolini did was to change the electoral law so that a majority was no longer necessary and any party having a plurality could take two-thirds of the seats in parliament. In the 1924 election, however, this change in the law was not needed to give the Fascist power, as they carried the election with a clear majority.

The minority kept on objecting, finally succeeded, and after further political warfare, Mussolini eventually wiped out all opposing minorities. He also suppressed opposition newspapers and freedom of speech, and in 1926 he abolished all parties and newspapers that opposed Fascism. Since then Italy has been governed by a full-fledged dictatorship.

"They make no excuses for the dictatorship," Dr. Weston said. "They think nineteenth century democracy is obsolete and ineffective, and call all reference to the rights of man, the goddess of liberty, etc., just empty talk. They don't care if they trample the prostrate body of the goddess of liberty; as a matter of fact they refer to it as the 'decayed' body. They think democracy means only chaos, and that it results in misspent energy."

No Parties Speaking of the power of the Fascist, the speaker said that Fascism is the state, and there is no room for faction or party. The state is idealized, and the individual counts nothing. There is great emphasis on patriotism, and the devotion to Mussolini has reached almost a religious fervor. He compared the devotion to Mussolini with that of the French for Napoleon during his heyday.

"The question for us to consider," he concluded, "is whether or not there is any truth in the assertion that the nineteenth century democratic institution is outworn, and should a new type of government be found. It is true that unless a

RUSSIAN CHORUS TO GIVE CONCERT AT CHAPEL HERE

36 Singing Horsemen of the Steppes Appear Next Tuesday

The 36 singing horsemen of the steppes—the Don Cossack Russian Male chorus, will give one of their stirring programs of Russian music next Tuesday evening at Memorial chapel.

Dressed in uniform dark blue, their knee-high riding boots polished to regimental brilliancy, they make an impressive picture as they march on the stage and stand at attention in a semi-circle, awaiting the command of their leader.

Serge Jaroff, the conductor, has a dynamic quality that stirs these men to thrilling achievements. You will not see him beat time, but his expressive hands will move slightly upward, one finger may be laid to his lips. Or suddenly the arms will make an outward fling, and there will follow a fortissimo of stupendous power that will sweep the chorus to some tremendous climax.

Their pianissimo are mere threads of tone that die away to silence. The men of the Don Cossack chorus come from that part of the southwestern Russia called the Steppes, and from that particular province through which the slow-flowing waters of the Don move majestically on to the Sea of Azov.

One wonders how these men of the plains feel, deprived of the space and freedom to which they have been accustomed. During the Czarist regime, they formed a respectable element among the troops their effective in time of war mounting to nearly two thousand men. Astride their sturdy Russian ponies, and armed with the regimental equipment of lance, sabre, and rifle, they were a picturesque part of the Imperial Army. They were divided into corps, and called after the region they inhabited; for instance, there were the Cossacks of the Don, Kouban, Terek, Astrakan, Oural, Siberia, and so on.

Now all that has passed. The regiments are dispersed. There is no longer a distinctive Don region, though the Don River still flows southward to the sea.

The men who comprise the Don Cossack Chorus today are refugees, with small hope of seeing again their native land. But they carry its memory jealously guarded. Into the music of their native folk-melodies, they pour all the passionate intensity of their longing.

The amazing technical perfection of their performances has made of them the sensational drawing-card of Europe. One of the costliest attractions ever imported, they return this season for their second American tour, which will extend from coast to coast.

Stamps Of Washington Top All Records In History

Washington — (P) — Laurels of George Washington as the most pictured individual in world history will be pinned tighter during this year's commemoration of the bicentennial of his birth.

Disregarding the countless portraits being circulated for the celebrations extending from his birthday, Feb. 22 through Thanksgiving day, postage stamps alone will shade any runners-up.

The postoffice department estimates 12 billion of its commemorative stamps will be issued during 1932, each bearing a portrait of Washington and constituting in quantity the greatest anniversary issue in history.

If prepared in a continuous roll, one stamp wide, these gummed portraits would circle the globe at the equator seven and one-half times; if made into a single sheet, they would cover more than 1,600 acres; if the sheets of 100 stamps each were piled on top of each other, the resulting column would extend more than eight and one-half miles. The paper alone, without gum or ink, will weigh 5,700 tons; and the gum required to back them will weigh 3,600 tons.

The familiar 2-cent stamp of the current regular series, bearing the likeness of Washington taken from a bust by Houdon, has yielded by now 98,765,480 printed portraits.

The quantity is such that, with the bi-centennial issue, there would be sufficient stamps to construct a paper copy of the Washington monument of one-fourth the cubic displacement of the stone shaft.

Likenesses of Washington have been borne on United States postage since the first issue in 1847 and have been used on 54 different stamps.

RETEST SHOWS LITTLE T. B. AMONG CATTLE

BY W. F. WINSEY Green Bay—Tuberculosis is nearly eliminated from the herds of Brown-co, according to a report on the recent retest received by County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh from B. F. Royer, one of the veterinarians who did the testing. In the re-test only 151 out of a total of 55,879 cattle in 3,468 herds reacted to the tests. This is about three reactors for each thousand cattle or less than one percent.

MASTER BUILDERS OPPOSE ORDINANCE

Do Not Want City to Name Commissioner of Public Works

A resolution opposing the proposed city ordinance establishing a commissioner of public works, was adopted by the Master Builders' association of Appleton at a meeting in their rooms in the Lutheran Aid building Tuesday evening. A copy of the resolution will be presented to the common council at its meeting tonight.

The Master Builders oppose the creation of the new office and the abolition of the offices of city engineer and street commissioner on the grounds that the city engineers' office is now being conducted in an efficient manner, and that it is the experience of all third class cities in the state that a full time engineer is necessary to economically plan and supervise municipal construction.

The proposed ordinance will be voted upon at the council meeting Wednesday night.

TELLS HOW TO SECURE UNITY IN LANDSCAPING

Methods of Getting Harmony and Proportion Also Discussed by Expert

Methods of creating unity, harmony and good proportion in landscaping home grounds were outlined and illustrated with stereopticon slides and sketches by Professor Franz A. Aust in his second lecture on landscaping at Appleton vocational school Tuesday evening. Approximately 100 people attended the lecture.

The series of six lectures is being offered here by the Appleton Post-Crescent in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin Extension division and vocational school. Professor Aust, the lecturer, is from the horticulture department of the state university.

In landscaping the small home grounds the design and planning plans are worked out together. Professor Aust stated. By interlocking the two schemes the home owner, if he is landscaping his property alone, will be able to determine for himself which plan will best suit his needs. Dr. Aust said.

The lecturer again emphasized the importance of individuality in landscaping home grounds, pointing out that it is easier to create an original garden with real beauty, than it is to copy the plan of a neighbor.

Consider Boundaries
"In making the design plan, the location of the property boundaries, buildings and other objects on the premises must receive first consideration," Professor Aust declared. "After this part of the work is completed, the home owner can begin to put the screening plan into effect in an effort to blot out objectionable views on his premises, or those on his neighbors' property."

Professor Aust said he believed proportion in landscaping comes from quantity consideration. He pointed out that variety in shrubs and flowers tend to beautify the grounds, but that too much variety will often spoil the entire scheme.

Discussing the foundation border, the lecturer stated that too many people are inclined to plant rows of shrubs around the house. He said that such planting was not proper, because it made the home look as though it was resting on a clump of shrubs.

In working out the planting plan, interpretation of beauty from the standpoint of reason and feeling is necessary, the lecturer said. He said he was still convinced that there are laws for the eyes as there are laws for the ears, and that errors in landscaping can be pointed out immediately by the person with an eye for beauty.

Answers Questions
Considerable time devoted to answering individuals problems following the lecture. The lecturer answered questions pertaining to proper planting of Colorado blue spruce trees, red cedars and other trees and shrubs.

The first lecture on the "Planting Plan" will be given next Tuesday evening. The planting plan will be discussed in two lectures.

The last two lectures will be on Perennials for Home Grounds and Practical Problems in Carrying Out the Planting Plan.

ISSUE BOOKLET ON PAPER INSTITUTE

Bulletin Describes Course, Its Aims and Purposes

A booklet describing the course, aims, and purpose of the Lawrence college institute of Paper Chemistry has been issued. It is the first booklet of its type since the foundation of the school.

The origin of the school, its program, building design and construction, and a list of the 246 donors to the institution, are the items included in the bulletin.

"The Institute of Paper Chemistry was established," says the bulletin, "as the only teaching institution of post-graduate character giving its whole attention to the problems of the pulp and paper industry. It was not designed to be competitive with any existing organization. The program of the institute is determined by its function. Its main objective is to teach. Its purpose is to give students the fundamental training in the basic sciences involved in pulp

"FOOD BOMBARDMENT" NEARLY COMPLETED

Winzlow, Ariz. —(AP)— Having delivered more than 20,000 pounds of food to snowbound Navajo and Zuni Indians in their scattered settlements in Arizona and New Mexico, seven giant army bombing planes returned here last night from Holbrook, Ariz., and were to continue operations today with this city as their base. Only a few of the more remote settlements remain to be visited.

The bombers for the past three days have been "bombarding" the tribesmen, marooned by one of the heaviest snow falls in the history of this section, with provisions. The planes, flying at low altitudes, have been dropping the food in snow banks. It is expected the work will be finished today.

"LYSISTRATA" MAY BE DISCONTINUED, CLAIM

Los Angeles —(AP)— The modernized version of Aristophanes' farce, "Lysistrata," will not be presented again in Los Angeles unless the cast and producers are acquitted of a charge of having staged an "indecent" show, the producers announced today. Trial of the cast and producers is set for Jan. 27.

A court order to prevent police raids on the performances was denied the producers yesterday by Superior Judge Leon R. Yankwich, who recommended the merits of the show be decided by a jury.

The cast, headed by Nancy O'Neil, well known New York stage actress, was arrested twice in raids by the police vice squad.

Voters Of First Ward Take First Step Toward Organization

COMMITTEE TO CHOOSE NAME, DRAW BY-LAWS

Decide Not to Discuss Civic Problems Until Club Has Been Formed

First steps in the organization of a First Ward voters' club were taken at a meeting of 60 First Ward residents at the First Ward school Monday evening. Seven persons were named to an organization committee, which will draw up by-laws and propose a name for the club.

Members of the committee are Henry Tuttrill, Fred Helmutz, Herman Heckert, Mrs. L. C. Sleeper, Seymour Greiner, Frank Wheeler and Gilbert Trentledge. The latter was appointed temporary secretary.

R. C. Breitung, secretary of the Fifth Ward Voters club explained the organization, functions and objectives of that club, and the two First Ward members, C. O. Davis and Mike Steinhauer, pledged their cooperation to the new organization.

Mr. Davis in a brief speech, explained his attitude toward the club in the school appropriation for 1932 saying that the actual budget of the schools had not been decreased, merely the appropriation. He pointed out that the decrease would mean a smaller balance at the end of the year but would not affect the actual operation of the schools.

Alderman Steinhauer talked about the ousting of the former poor commissioner, said the poor farm should be a county venture rather than a city project, and objected to the operation of a store for indigents by the city. He felt that this business should be left to merchants.

Bureau Subjects

A number of subjects of civic interest were touched upon, but it was decided that there would be no extensive discussion of city affairs until the club is actually organized. There was some talk about the proposed ordinance establishing the office of commissioner of public works and abolishing those of the city engineer and street commissioner, but no resolution expressing the feeling of the group was drawn. Although general sentiment seemed to be against the change, the group felt that inasmuch it has had no chance to investigate both sides of the question it would take no definite action.

A letter from the board of education stating that there would have to be a charge for future use of the school building for night meetings was read. The communication explained that because the school appropriation had been cut $30,000 the school board could no longer bear the expense of light, heat and janitor service for night meetings at the school.

COUNCIL TO FACE SALARY PROBLEM

Expect No Definite Decision Will Be Made on Matter Tonight

Heavy business is scheduled for the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening, though it is possible that the biggest task, the fixing of salaries for 1932, will be held over for an adjourned meeting.

The recommendation of the ordinance committee that the ordinance proposing the establishment of the office of commissioner of public works be killed probably will sidetrack a long argument that was predicted for tonight's meeting.

Work on the salary ordinance will be started in a meeting of the committee of the whole but it may not be completed tonight. The ordinance must be ordered published before the February meeting, when it comes up for adoption.

FIRST FORUM MEETING SCHEDULED TONIGHT

The first regular meeting of the newly organized Lawrence college Campus Forum will be held Wednesday evening at the hall of the college. The revised plan of organization are to be presented by the constitution committee. Eleanor Smith and Robert Olen will lead the discussion in regard to the present situation of Germany and the problem of reparations. The idea of the forum has met an enthusiastic reception on the Lawrence campus, and a large crowd is expected to attend tonight's meeting.

CIRCULATE PAPERS FOR JUSTICE FRITZ

Nomination papers for Justice Oscar M. Fritz candidate for election to the state supreme court have been received in Appleton and are being circulated by friends of the justice. The election will be held Tuesday, April 5. Justice Fritz was named to the supreme court in May 1929, to fill the unexpired term of Justice Christian Doerflinger. He elected in April, Justice Fritz will hold the office for 10 years.

START REPAIRS ON LAWRENCE-ST BRIDGE

The repair of the E. Lawrence-st bridge at Drew-st was started Wednesday morning by street department workers. The floor of the bridge has been torn out, and tomorrow new planking and an asphalt top will be laid. Lawrence-st from Morrison to Drew-st will be closed to traffic for a few days.

Two of the city's unemployed men were hired for the job. Others will be hired as the work progresses.

Statue of Lee

This impressive bronze statue of General Robert E. Lee was unveiled by the Virginia General Assembly on Tuesday, January 19, the anniversary of the birth of the great Southern leader. The statue, by Rudolph Evans, noted Virginia sculptor, stands on the spot where General Lee took command of the Confederate forces in the Civil War.

NEW LONDON FARM EXCHANGE ELECTS

George Krause Is Named President, William Marsch Secretary

George Krause, route 4 New London, was named president of the New London Farmers' Exchange for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of the organization yesterday. Herman Elise, New London, was named vice president, William Marsch, secretary, and Carl Gherndt, treasurer.

Directors named are William Froehnow, Henry Sutcliff, Max Stern, and Jack Zeigler.

Annual reports of the exchange were read, the last year's activities and plans for 1932 discussed. Gustav A. Sell, county agricultural agent, talked to the group on dairy rationing necessitated by the curtailed feed supply resulting from the drought last summer and the country's economic situation.

COLDER WEATHER ON MENU FOR THURSDAY

Much colder weather is predicted for Appleton and vicinity for the next 24 hours, according to predictions of the weather bureau. Skies will be cloudy tonight and Thursday but there are no indications of precipitation either in the form of rain or snow.

The mercury is due for a drop throughout the middle of the week, and tomorrow, the weatherman says. Winds are shifting to the north and northeast, a good indication that colder weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday morning the thermometer registered 22 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 23 degrees above zero.

TEACHERS CONTINUE STUDY OF PROBLEMS

School problems studied during the last year by faculty committees were presented in reports Tuesday afternoon at the faculty meeting of Appleton high school. The proposals for report card improvement, activities awards and school administration will be studied further by the faculty.

Miss Borghild Anderson presented the report on the improvement of the grade card as chairman of that committee. Werner Witte, assistant principal, made recommendations for uniformity of all school awards and Harry Cameron reported for the committee which has been working on improvements in school administration.

Estelle Taylor Must Wear Plaster Cast For 3 Months

BY JESSIE HENDERSON Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press Hollywood—(CPA)—“Any way, I'm the only actress in Hollywood in a permanent cast,” said Estelle Taylor surveying the plaster cast into which they have put her at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital. The former Mrs. Jack Dempsey dislocated a vertebra in a motor accident at Christmas and will have to wear the cast for a period of from six weeks to three months.

“But I'm not an invalid,” the actress continued with her customary cheery countenance, “you don't need to send me jars of jelly or books on philosophy. It took a little philosophy to reconcile me to a plaster cast when I was booked for a musical show in Chicago and for a picture at Universal, but the doctors said I'd have plenty of trouble with that vertebra later on if they didn't attend to it right now. STATE HIGHWAY JOBS FURNISH WORK FOR 11,000

Military Discipline Marks Tent-city Camps Where Workers Live

BY W. A. WHITE Clayville, Pa.—Launching a program which Governor Pinchot believes will be a long stride toward alleviating suffering this winter, the State of Pennsylvania has opened half a dozen camps in Western Pennsylvania, where men are being housed and fed while employed on state roads projects.

It is expected that 11,000 unemployed men—all that present state funds can handle—will be given temporary jobs with fair pay and maintenance during the winter, and others will be hired if the Governor's relief plans, which include an emergency bond issue, are approved by the legislature, now in special session.

Camps are already open at Clayville, Indian Head, Curwensville, Kittanning, Point, Greensburg and Punxsutawney. Others are planned. Manned by officers of the Pennsylvania National Guard—most of them veterans of the World War—the camps are maintained under near-army discipline and sanitation, and National Guard equipment—tents, stoves, moving kitchens, cooking utensils—is being used.

Men of all walks of life, professional men, skilled mechanics, ordinary laborers, are among the several hundred given employment to date under a carefully planned operation supervised by the State Department of Labor and Industry.

Pay is at the rate of 40 cents an hour for a nine-hour day, with an 85-cent daily deduction from each man for maintenance.

Camps are being established by counties and only men of that county may be employed.

Getting Ahead

Road construction work is done under the State Highway Department, but no major road work is being done. Only those roads which are partially maintained by the state—most of them narrow country thoroughfares which otherwise might not be improved for years—are being used for the emergency work. The state is not saving money on the construction work, though it might have by putting the money below the existing rate, which is 40 cents an hour—but it is gaining time on its road program, and, if work can be continued throughout this winter, will be a year or so ahead of schedule.

The camp sites are tented towns. Housing tents are built in long rows. The tents are the square army type of heavy khaki canvas. There is a raised floor in each, and a coal stove. A tent may house four or six men.

Each tent is electrically lighted. There is a “company street,” as in an army camp, electrically lighted, too. There is a large mess tent, capable of handling about 100 men.

Health Gets Attention

The camps are maintained principally of residents of the county who live too far distant to go to their homes each night, and for men who are homeless. Men with homes and families are not permitted to stay at camp, but must pay their share of the camp maintenance at the rate of 85 cents a day. Thus, while a camp houses only 70 men at present, there may be 250 or even 300 employed in the vicinity of the camp.

State health authorities look after the sanitation. Physicians are on hand when a camp is opened and each applicant for a job is accepted only tentatively, pending physical examination. Thus far the health authorities say they have found no case of untidiness sufficient to prevent an applicant holding a job.

A bath house is provided at each camp. Drinking water is tested daily by the health authorities.

In one camp 17 men accepted for work were vaccinated before being permitted to take up residence. Local physicians have been retained for service in emergency. Three meals are served daily.

At night the men are permitted their freedom, but late hours, drinking and carousing will not be permitted. Officers in charge say there have been no infractions of any rules, the men all apparently being family men desirous only of supporting their families.

Hawaiian Senate Scores Legislature In Kentucky

Honolulu—(AP)—Kentucky legislators were excoriated abruptly today to “mind their own business” by Hawaiian senators indignant at a resolution of the southern lawmakers urging presidential interference in Honolulu's crime situation.

Hawaiian senators, resentful of criticism from the continental United States and jealous of the integrity of the islands, were quick to flail the Kentuckians as soon as they heard of the resolution yesterday.

Sarcastically advising his colleagues not to be too hard on their critics, youthful Senator James K. Jarrett commented, “some of the most ignorant people in the country come from Kentucky.”

The attack upon the southern lawmakers was launched by the veteran Senator Charles A. Rice, who declared the suggestion that martial law be declared in Hawaii was analogous to the Hawaiian legislators petitioning President Hoover to declare martial law in Kentucky because of mine strikes in that state.

“As a son of Kentucky,” he concluded, “I now ask them to let us mind our own business and we will let them mind theirs.”

The Rev. Stephen L. Desha, Sr., venerable senator, added that his father, John Rollin Langhorne Desha, once was governor of that state.

The resolution of the Kentucky legislature which aroused the ire of Hawaiian senators, urged President Hoover to use his authority to obtain conviction of the remaining four men accused of assaulting Mrs. Thomas Massie, to try and obtain the release of Mrs. Massie's mother, husband and two navy men accused of slaying one of the young woman's suspected assailants, and, failing this, to declare martial law in the territory.

Senator Jarrett declared that rather than beset the Kentucky legislature, the Hawaiian senators should sympathize with the Kentucky lawmakers.

“We are to blame for the many wrong impressions,” he said. “There was a tragedy here that every decent citizen abhors, but our officers went out and did the best that they could to round up the culprits.

“The legislature of Kentucky is to be excused, for some of the most ignorant people in the country come from Kentucky and other states in the south.

“That resolution was passed because the people of Kentucky don't know the situation in Hawaii. We should say a prayer for the Kentucky legislators and not condemn them.”

AWAIT HOOVER VIEW ON NAVAL BUILDING

Congressional Action May Be Delayed Pending Expression of President

Washington—(AP)—Further congressional action on the $618,250,000 naval construction bill may be delayed until President Hoover has passed on it.

Chairman Vinson was undecided whether to ask a committee vote at the conclusions of testimony today or await a report from the president and the budget bureau.

Vinson has asked Secretary Adams, who approved the Georgia Democrat's idea of building the fleet up to twenty limits in 10 years, to get the reaction of the president and the budget bureau. That has not yet been transmitted to the committee. Vinson, however, has talked with Mr. Hoover and has a pretty good idea what will be the recommendation. Representative Brien of Illinois, ranking Republican on the committee, and other G. O. P. members, have said they are certain the bill authorizing 120 new ships would not be in harmony with the administration's present financial policy.

Britten intends to try to substitute a more modest $60,000,000 program when the bill is brought to a vote, but Vinson is confident he has enough votes to obtain approval of the bigger authorization.

NEED MATTRESS AND SPRING FOR FAMILY

A mattress and a spring for a needy Appleton family is being sought by the Appleton Welfare and Relief council. The family has been moved to new quarters, and another bed is needed immediately.

The council store room stock of baby and children's clothes has been nearly depleted lately, and Mrs. Paul Blackbert, chairman of the clothing drive, issued an appeal this morning for clothes of this type. A number of babies have been born recently, and all the infant clothes in stock have been distributed.

So far this season 2,700 pieces of clothing have been given out to needy persons in Appleton.

FAILS TO WIN LENIENCY FOR BREAKING DRY LAW

Madison—(AP)—A plea for leniency on the ground that “the best citizens in town” persuaded him to handle hard liquor at his soft drink parlor failed John Collins of Gratiot in federal court here yesterday afternoon.

Judge R. C. Baltzell sentenced Collins to 90 days in the Milwaukee House of Correction. Collins was one of 11 persons sentenced during the afternoon.

Before fining Mrs. Mary Haselwender, Sauk City, $200, Judge Baltzell had prohibition agents check her contention that she has quit manufacturing beer. The agents searched her house and reported no evidence.

Sweden has advanced to fifth among shipbuilding nations, passing Germany in this respect.

WOMAN, 80, STILL WORKING DAILY AT OWN BUSINESS

Michigan Pioneer “Business Girl” Held First Job 57 Years Ago

Escanaba, Mich.—She is still a “business girl” at the age of 80.

Mrs. Mary H. Scott is office receptionist for a woman physician, Dr. Roger Chenoweth of Escanaba. Dr. Chenoweth has been Mrs. Scott's medical advisor for twenty years, and her employer for the past two years.

Mrs. Scott is a “downtown” pioneer of Michigan and Wisconsin. She entered the business world as a bride and was associated with her husband in several commercial enterprises in various cities.

Now, since she is a widow, she is content to lead the comparatively calm life of an office employee for a physician. And she is a decidedly efficient office girl.

“Mrs. Scott is interested in the patients and is unworried by telephone calls from boy friends and the expectation of an evening date. She is an ideal office girl,” commented Dr. Chenoweth.

Mrs. Scott's introduction to the business world came at a time when “careers” for women still were frowned upon—and, in most parts of the country, unheard of. While she was living with her husband at Green Bay, Wis., a lumber firm at Menominee, Mich., offered work to both and they moved. That was in 1874.

Opened Boarding House

The Scotts wished to have a business of their own and in a short time they went to an adjoining city, Marinette, Wis., and opened a pioneer boarding house.

Lumberjacks, rivermen and trappers were the boarders. Appetites were “right good,” according to Mrs. Scott. When this veteran business woman hears the stories of the meals that Paul Bunyan and his men ate in the Wisconsin pineries she cannot be astonished—she remembers the mammoth meals served to the “boys” at the Scott boarding house.

Modern store service did not help a boarding house keeper in those days, according to Mrs. Scott. She says:

“When a woman needed apples, potatoes, flour or other heavy merchandise, she would tell her husband and he'd go to the store with a wheelbarrow and bring the supplies home.”

In 1883 the Scotts went west, lived some months in the Mormon territory near Salt Lake City, and then moved to Tacoma, Wash., and then by steamer from San Francisco.

Started Dress Shop

But the Scotts were pine land people, and a year later they were back at the Twin Cities, Marinette and Menominee, both working for the big logging companies there.

Simple fur caps were becoming unfashionable in the pine states by 1889 when weekly newspapers began to print weekly style letters from Philadelphia and New York. Mrs. Scott became aware of the change and she influenced her husband to join her in a millinery shop and ladies' ready-to-wear store.

The couple opened a shop at Menominee in 1888, but the business burned to the ground two days after the opening. Hats were forgotten and a short time later Mr. and Mrs. Scott had opened a grocery store at Escanaba, Mich.

Later they changed to a fruit store. But a fruit store life little evening leisure, so the Scotts changed to a toy, notions and women's furnishings shop. This satisfied both business pioneers and they continued the store for twenty-two years at Escanaba. Mrs. Scott sold the store a few months following her husband's death in 1928. She tried to retire.

But business had become a pleasure and now she has returned to active life as an “office girl.”

PROFESSOR TELLS STUDENTS ABOUT HITLER AND PARTY

Says Growth of National Socialist Group Is Result of Heavy Reparations

The National Socialist party of Germany, and its fiery leader, Adolf Hitler, were discussed by Dr. G. C. Cast of the Lawrence college faculty in an address to Lawrence students at the chapel Wednesday morning.

“The man who today occupies the center of the stage in Europe is not one of the few left over monarchs nor the prime minister of any government,” declared Dr. Cast. “He does not sit in the cabinet or legislative bodies of any country. He is virtually a man without a country, yet the undisputed, admired, and feared leader of millions, a man who is denied citizenship in the country which he strives with all his might to set free from foreign bondage. It is Adolf Hitler.”

Dr. Cast traced the organization and rapid development of the National Socialist party under Hitler, from its organization in 1919, at which time the group numbered six members, and was described as “a group of six people with no fixed aims, no program, only the desire to somehow struggle out of the muddle of those days,” to the powerful organization which it has become today.

“If, three or four years ago, France and her allies had consented to a revision of the Treaty of Versailles, and either a cancellation or a marked softening down of the reparation burden, Hitler's party would never have grown to its present size and the rest of the western world would probably have been spared the woes of the present depression,” said Dr. Cast.

“I feel that all hope of financial and economic recovery of Germany and the rest of the world is vain unless France can be induced to take these steps. Even the most stringent measures of economy and rearmament have been taken by the German government to forestall the final and complete collapse of Germany can only serve to postpone the day.”

“During the present year things will come to a crisis in Germany,” concluded Dr. Cast. “The proposed three year moratorium on conditional reparation payments will not, in my opinion, solve Germany's problem. If reparation payments are definitely stopped, or very materially cut down, and if the coming disarmament conference actually accomplishes a tangible reduction of armaments, Europe's ill may be cured. But neither of these is likely to happen and conditions will probably go from bad to worse. European politicians and militarists have learned nothing, and they are seemingly incapable of learning the new step that western civilization must learn if it is to survive and march on.”

PLAY THIRD ROUND OF BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

The third round of play in the contract bridge tournament at the Appleton club will get started at 7:30 Thursday evening. There will be eight tables and the regular schedule will be followed. A schedule of games for the remainder of the meet will be available within the next few days it has been announced. The tourney is sponsored by the Appleton Contract Bridge Players association.

Tobacco was first introduced into England by Francisco Fernandes, a physician.

BIRTHS

SCOUTS GET AWARDS AT TROOP MEETING

Three Troop 2 Youngsters Advanced to First Class Rank

Three boy scouts of Troop 2 were advanced to first class rank and three became second class scouts at a meeting of the organization in First Methodist Episcopal church parlors Tuesday evening. The meeting was arranged by H. H. Brown, scoutmaster.

Bruce Stevens, Thomas Sell and William Lohr were advanced to first class rank and Walter Wriston, John Rosebush and Dan Murphy received second class honors. Clark Nixon received his star scout award, and William Ogilvie received a bronze palm award.

Merit badges were awarded as follows:

North, the dealer, opened with a forcing bid of two spades. South responded with the mandatory two spades and South led a spade. North led the spades and South went to three no trump, which became the contract. West and east did not bid.

The lead of the nine of diamonds by west caused the contract to be defeated. Any other lead, especially the fourth best heart, would enable south to make game.

The short suit lead is not recommended when the original leader has a good suit to establish or knows his partner's best suit or should cash in high cards against a trump contract before the contracting side can make discards. There is danger in failing to recognize a short suit lead. For instance in the Culbertson-Lenz match Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson could have taken the first five tricks in hearts against a no trump, but each thought the other had a short suit.

FORMER JUSTICE IS GUILTY IN HOLDUPS

Beaver Dam Merchant Sent to Prison as Leader of Robber Gang

Jumeau—(AP)—George W. Baker, Beaver Dam merchant and former justice of the peace, was convicted last night of being the leader of a gang of robbers and sentenced to one to three years in the state prison.

Baker was charged with being an accessory before the fact in a series of robberies in Columbia, and Dodge-co. The jury deliberated his case four hours and sentence was imposed by Circuit Judge Charles M. Davison.

Baker was described as directing operations, taking care of the loot and ruling the gang with an iron hand, by four youths who pleaded guilty to the robberies.

The youths are Clarence Erickson, Albert Barker, Hugo Bussewitz and Will Krenz, all of Beaver Dam. William Bohl, who is being held in Portage for a filing station holdup, also claimed membership in the gang and testified against Baker.

CONVENTIONAL LEAD IN BRIDGE IS OFTEN AID TO OPPONENTS

Highest Card of Short Suit Sometimes Helps to Defeat Contract

BY TOM O'NEIL New York—(AP)—Bridge sharps who have been given second thought to principles demonstrated in the Culbertson-Lenz contract match are convinced that at times in playing the cards it is highly profitable to wait before attacking.

Often the side which essays a game contract succeeds or fails through the first lead of an opponent. The wait, which emerges from the match as the one play not generally used by all experts and as successfully demonstrated in most cases by its proponent, Ely Culbertson, consists of the lead of the highest card of a short suit, a doubleton or tripleton. Time and again it has caused a contract to be when any other would have resulted in the defending side failing to stop game.

The play is employed when the first player to lead has no guide in the way of a bid by partner, lacks good reentries or holds tenaces; that is suits containing honors not in sequence, such as ace-queen and one or more small, or king-knight and small cards. To lead from such tenaces usually would give a trick to the opponents. It is highly desirable to have the lead come up to the holder of tenaces. In such cases, for instance, the queen would take a trick when otherwise it might not.

A lead from the top of nothing is made with the deliberate intention of giving the first trick to opponents and is used in defending against a trump contract and no trump contracts. The card led is the highest of the short suit so that partner will not confuse the lead with the standard fourth best of longest suit. For that reason cards above the seven usually are the most desirable for the waiting lead.

Here is a hand illustrating the principle:

THREE CREWS WORK ON HIGHWAY 10 SUBWAY

Three shifts of men started work Monday on the highway 10 subway under the highway and the Milwaukee Railway company tracks at the county asylum, according to Frank R. Appleton, county highway commissioner. The crews will work six hours each, from 6 o'clock in the morning to midnight.

Work has been held up during the last few weeks because frost is out of the ground and because rains and melting snows have made the excavation so wet it is impossible to continue digging operations. The three crews were started on the job Monday in an effort to make up for lost time.

DEATHS

MRS. ALBERT HOPPE, SR. Mrs. Albert E. Hoppe, Sr., 62, died at her home, 211 E. Water-st, Tuesday evening. She was born in Germany and came to the United States in 1892. She was married to Albert Hoppe at Greenport, N. Y., and the couple made their home there until 1904 when they came to Appleton.

She is survived by the widower, two daughters, Mrs. Fred Kirk and Mrs. James J. Burke, three sons, Carl, Otto, Albert, Jr., Frank and Walter, all of Appleton; and three sisters, Mrs. Herman Schultz, Mrs. Herman Pollex, and Mrs. Herman Wogatzke, Germany. The body was taken from the Hof Funeral parlors to the home Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. MATHILDA EVANS

The funeral of Mrs. Mathilda Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sorenson, 712 N. Garfield-st, who died in Phoenix, Ariz., Monday, was held Wednesday in Phoenix. Besides her parents, survivors include the widower, Phoenix; one sister, Mrs. W. A. Lemke, Racine; and three brothers, William of Pacific Grove, Calif., Arthur of Rhineland, and Raymond of Monticello, Ind.

American And Canadian Aces Stranded In China

Shanghai, China—(AP)—Five American and five Canadian aviators who came to China expecting to be given jobs at $1,000 a month piloting Chinese military airplanes found themselves stranded here today.

The aviators said they were promised by Chinese organizations in Canada and the United States that the aviation bureau of the Chinese ministry of war was seeking pilots and would pay the salary mentioned for competent men.

The aviators landed here with practically no money only to be told the government bureau is not looking for pilots at all.

The five pilots from the United States said posters appeared at numerous Pacific coast airports, including those of San Jose, Stockton and Oakland, Calif., advertising China's need for fliers. The Canadians said they came as a result of direct promises from the anti-Japanese National Salvation society of Vancouver that they could receive government jobs immediately after their arrival in China.

Dr. Philip Chu, a Chinese physician at Vancouver, the Canadians said, is president of the Chinese society there and was directing the enlistment of Canadian fliers for enlistment in China.

The fliers appealed to the American and Canadian trade commissioners here who referred the matter to the government at Nanking, and received the reply that the national government war ministry has no knowledge of Chinese enlisting aviators abroad and that no foreign fliers are being sought.

The aviators said they understood more American and Canadian pilots are coming to China as a result of the promises. The trade commissioners communicated today with their respective governments hoping to forestall the coming of others.

ANNUAL MOTOR BOAT SHOW TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Craft of Every Description to Be on Display at New York Event

BY FRANK C. TRUE
New York—(CPA)—One will have no reason to become suspicious of himself if he sees a 50-foot cruiser "sailing" up Broadway on wheels this week. It will be headed for the Grand Central palace, where the twenty-seventh annual national motor boat show opens next Friday night for a week's run.

The widest range of boat and engine values ever offered will be displayed by manufacturers from all parts of the country, to say nothing of exhibits from foreign countries. Improved models in all types of boats and marine engines have been developed for 1932 to meet the demand for a wider price range. From the smallest of inboard boats to the largest stock cruiser, from the lightest outboard to the heaviest Diesel engine, builders have made many changes in design and construction to create a varied range of boating values.

Hulls have been refined by cruiser builders to insure easier riding qualities. The interiors of the cruisers have been more luxuriously fitted than ever before and a concentrated effort has been made to increase the headroom and provide additional locker and storage space. Models at last year's show gave evidence of a leaning toward feminine appeal, but the 1932 boats have gone even further in this direction. Hot water heaters have been introduced in standard cruisers, with running water, while brightly polished metal sinks and stoves with oven and broilers have made their appearance, along with electric refrigerators.

Built-In Radios
Cabins have built-in radios, and the manufacturers have reached the ultimate in leather and tapestry upholstery and in fittings of nickel-silver, cast bronze and chromium plate. Diesel power is appearing in standard models for the first time. Anti-vibration construction has been followed out, floors and wall have been insulated to deaden noise from the engine room. Motor shafts are rubber mounted and vacuum power controls eliminate the manual operation of gears.

New engine room ventilating systems, non-explosive gasoline tanks and fuel leak alarms are among the safety features introduced. The lines of small, low-priced family cruisers, introduced last year, have been continued with numerous new convertible features. Runabout dealers are offering models scaled down to amazingly low prices.

This year's show will compare favorably in size and number of exhibits with previous shows, there being more than 150 manufacturers and dealers represented, while the number of exhibits will exceed 200.

Six national boating organizations will meet during the show—the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, the Regatta Circuit Riders club, the American Power Boat Association Council and Racing commission, the Waterway League of America and the United States Power squadrons.

Death Ends 70-Year Vigil
For Woman's Soldier Lover

Binghamton, N. Y. — (AP)—Fanny Read is dead; and the book of a rare, melancholy love is ended.

The drums of war rolled their staccato call in 1862. Fanny Read was 19 years old then. The 101st New York Infantry, sa', bustling and eager, was encamped near her home in Hancock. Greysbeards shook their heads. Youth laughed and looked for a lark.

One young officer of the 101st New York Infantry captured the heart of pretty Fanny Read. They pledged their troth.

Then came the day to break camp. On to the war! It was a time for lovers to say farewell. But there was no "goodbye" between Fanny Read and her soldier sweetheart. Her father forbade it. "Ridiculous," he said. "You are too young even to think of love."

BROADWAY TO SEE TEMPERANCE PLAY

Show Boat Players to Revive "Ten Nights in a Barroom"

BY WARD MOREHOUSE
New York — (CPA)—Joe Morgan, the old rummy, Samuel Switchell, the quaint Yankee, and little Mary, who sheds her tears and pleads with her inebriate pa to come home,—these and other characters out of the great American idyll, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," will be back with us this week. They'll parade across the stage of a playhouse which, only the other day was given over to woodchuck and the strange carrying on of black folk down in the Mississippi swamplands.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom," part and parcel of the American theater since Daniel Frohman's childhood. It has outlasted many of the hardy old-timers—"Ben Hur," "Way Down East," "The Old Homestead," "The Two Orphans" and other revered relics of a distant day. This time it's brought to New York by one Billy Bryant and his show boat players, a company now having a frolic on dry land well, not so dry—after years and years of churning up and down the Mississippi and its tributaries.

Old Institution
The celebrated temperance play depicting the losing battle that old Joe Morgan fights with demon rum, was an American institution back in the ten-twenty-thirty days. It was an established melodrama when Booth was the nation's Hamlet; it was a favorite bill in the amusement halls when William Paver-sham was playing "The Squaw Man" and when Adolph Zukor was in the button business.

"McFadden's Flats" has been in the storehouse for years and years: "Shore Acres" is a forgotten relic, and only the oldest settler of Willow Grove, Ind., remembers what "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" was all about. But "Ten Nights in a Barroom," bless it, survives.

The Billy Bryant company that is now to present it in New York is a casual, carefree outfit that was cruising up and down the Mississippi and Ohio long before Edna Ferber ever heard of a snow boat. They are play actors, it appears, who take their drama seriously. Quaint are these players from out of the west, unfamiliar with new fangled notions of theatrical entertainment and indifferent to the drama's radical and revolutionary outbursts. They're playing "Ten Nights in a Barroom" as did the first company that played it, back in 1858.

SOUTH IN TRIBUTE TO GREAT GENERAL

Honors Robert E. Lee on 125th Anniversary of His Birth

Richmond, Va.— (AP)—The new south and the old south were one Tuesday as Robert Edward Lee, the great chieftain of the Confederacy, was honored throughout the vast territory once under the Stars and Bars.

Virginia, on whose battlefields Lee waged campaigns which stand as monuments of military strategy, and for whom he labored in peace as in war, took the lead in the observance of the 125th anniversary of her famous son. But from the plains of Texas to the capitol at Washington the day was observed by descendants of those who followed Lee in the campaigns from Bull Run to Appomattox.

The old hall of the Virginia house of delegates at Richmond, the Confederacy's capital, was the scene for impressive ceremonies dedicating a full length bronze statue of Lee. Robert E. Lee IV, great-grandson of the general, was named to unveil the bronze likeness which stands on the exact spot where General Lee stood when he arched to accept the command of the armed forces of Virginia on that memorable 23rd of April, 1861.

MELLON HEARING IS ORDERED POSTPONED

Washington — (AP)—Final action on the Patman resolution seeking the impeachment of Secretary Mellon was postponed indefinitely Tuesday by the house judiciary committee.

This action was explained not to mean the case was dropped but that future consideration would await the printing of the hearings and the receipt of material the committee has requested.

After a brief executive session held after Representative Patman, Texas Democrat, and Alexander W. Gregg, Mellon's representative, had closed their arguments, Chairman Sam-ners said:

"We are going to await the printing of material before we consider the matter further."

The material requested includes the original cable sent by President Olaya of Colombia, to his legation here which in turn was laid before the committee today, denying that he had ever discussed the Barco oil concession with Mellon.

BODY'S COMPOSITION
London.—Analysis of the human body by Dr. T. E. Lawson has shown it to be composed of the following: Enough water to fill a 10-gallon measure, enough fat for 7 bars of soap, carbon for 9000 pencils, phosphorus for 2000 matches, iron to make one nail, lime to whitewash a chicken coop, and enough sulphur to rid one dog of fleas.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MILK PRODUCERS COOPERATIVE

The effort that is being made by milk producers surrounding Appleton to organize a branch of the Pure Milk Cooperative deserves more than the academic interest of Appleton businessmen and milk consumers. It is of far-reaching influence, for upon its success depends, in a large measure, the purchasing power of the large group of farmers for whom Appleton is the trading center.

It must be apparent to everyone that if the buying ability of a large group of people is increased there must be better business for everyone in the community. The Pure Milk Products Cooperative is designed primarily to increase the farmer's buying power for by enabling the milk producers to function as a unit they probably will be able to command a better price for their product.

A better price to the farmer does not necessarily imply increase in the cost to the consumer; in fact it is the almost universal experience that the cost to the consumer is in no way affected by the operations of the Pure Milk Products Cooperative. The farmer knows as well as the city businessman that ability to pay controls the price of any commodity and that efforts to inflate prices when buying power is absent must end in disaster.

Cooperative marketing is in no sense an experiment. It has long been urged by state and national authorities as the one means whereby the farmer can obtain a fair price for his products. In Wisconsin the state department of markets is actively assisting in the organization of these cooperative organizations and a wealth of information and experience has been accumulated to guide them. With this background the milk producers near Appleton need not fear they are embarking upon a dangerous experiment or that they are taking a step in the dark.

Appleton people generally are hopeful that the organization will be formed and that it will function as the milk producers wish it to. If the farmer can get more money for his products he is enabled to increase his buying, and both farmer and city resident will be more prosperous.

WHERE WOULD IT END?

Last week New York City made a desperate attempt to so amend the President's Reconstruction Relief Bill as to permit that city to borrow from the national government a great amount of money. It thinks it will need 120 billions to meet maturing loans and payrolls and keep its machinery going in good order until it can collect taxes again. In other words it has been spending, and how wildly only a comparison of figures will show.

In 1900 it cost 90 millions to run New York City. For 1932 the budget demands a sum approaching 700 millions.

Tammany thinks that the doctrine supported by many Progressives and labor leaders of having the federal government subsidize everything and everybody is a pretty smart idea, but fortunately congress, so far, has failed to see the light.

New York perhaps presents a typical example of the inefficiency of many of our municipal governments, of their wastage, of their reckless policy of spending to please political groups so that elections will turn out to suit those who hold office and give them further power to spend.

Chicago, Detroit, and Philadelphia are others in the million population class with empty treasuries because they mortgaged the future, put blinders on the people and spent like princes of India.

There is not enough money in the world to please the demands of political groups who try to use Washington as the great magnet to draw the coin out of the pockets of a hundred twenty million people to defray the losses ensuing from careless and unintelligent, if not dishonest, local governments.

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

"Brutus and Caesar; what is in Caesar?"
Why should that name be sounded more than yours?
Write them together, yours is as fair a name;
Sound them, it doth become the mouth as well;
Weigh them, it is as heavy; con-jure them,
Brutus will start a spirit as soon as Caesar.
Now in the name of all the gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed,
That he is grown so great?"

Wisconsin democrats seem to be following the great concourse, plunging heart, soul and gizzard over themselves to indicate their perfect unanimity for Governor Roosevelt for president.

We wonder how much of this strong national support for the New York executive comes to him because of the magic name of Roosevelt.

The tendency in this great democracy of ours to run after mere names, although it has probably done no harm to date, is becoming as pronounced as in those nations where the eldest son succeeds, not only to the property, but to the offices of the father.

Is there something in our blood not yet eradicated by the near century and a half of independence, in fact coming down from those ages of fealty to a throne, that makes us follow those of certain families?

In 1797 John Adams was elected second president of the United States. In 1825 his son was elected to the same office. Indeed, most administrations down to date have sought to put some member of this illustrious family into the cabinet or appointed one to exalted position elsewhere. The present secretary of the navy is such a one.

William Henry Harrison became president of the United States in 1841. His grandson, Benjamin Harrison, took the same office in 1889.

Robert T. Lincoln, only son of the great emancipator to grow to maturity, accepted a cabinet position under President Garfield, but thereafter refused a nomination for the United States senate and constantly declined to permit his name to be offered before a convention nominating for the presidency.

He appeared to fully realize that without the name he held no such opportunity would be presented to him. Was he not in fact much more imbued with the true spirit of democracy than those who coin their names to their own advantage?

What chance had Senator LaFollette for election without his name or Philip LaFollette for the governor's chair? Candler compels the answer, "No chance."

Are we to repeat this year and elect Franklin Roosevelt merely because his cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, a pounding, rampaging but learned and constructive man of honor succeeded so well in the White House? And did not Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., become governor of Porto Rico and now of the Philippines because he was the son of a famous father?

Is that to be the standard by which we lavish the laurels of public acclaim upon our leaders?

It has advantages and disadvantages. Its disadvantages lie in its unfairness to the able and struggling man in public affairs whose father happened to be a blacksmith or a plowboy. Its advantage is in bringing a particularly high spirit of endeavor into the public service, for men will do their utmost to maintain the standards of their sires.

An old proverb runs that "a person with a bad name is already half hanged," whereas the American people demonstrate that one with a good name is already half elected.

Of course, Governor Roosevelt has already shown in many years of public service qualities of high merit, but there are many others who have done the same or better and without even that excellent start in life provided by an ancestor.

The Democratic party might well analyze the virtues of others and not be dazzled too much by the reflected light from a great relative.

The livery car chauffeur's union says that no one is allowed to drive his car in a funeral procession except members of the union in their own cars. Well, dearie, that means that no one gets into a funeral procession without paying a swell tax bill. No, it isn't a law, it's just a racket. And the union started to enforce its racket the other day, but a son of the mother who was being buried objected and called the police. After much shouting, fist-waving and gun-displaying, the funeral went on. But policemen drove the union cars, policemen drove the hearse and policemen carried the flowers into the church. A squad car, carrying policemen and shotguns was a part of the funeral procession . . .

CREED

Lord, for the day 'tis these I ask
The courage needed for the task,
The patience to abide delay,
The willingness the friend to play
Lord, grant to me what strength I'll need
For every large or trivial deed
And let me, ere the sun descends,
For all past failures make amends
In some way when shall come the test,
Lord, let me measure to my best
So let me live that others may Rejoice that I have passed their way.
Lord, this my hope and this my prayer,
That in Thy purpose I may share
And by Thy mercy and Thy grace
Make this day more than commonplace.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

THE STREPTOCOCCUS AT PLAY

Tonsillitis, simple sore throat with slight feverishness, and scarlet fever according to the investigations of Griffith and Glover, English physicians who reported their studies in the British Medical Journal recently, may all be caused by the same germ, a hemolytic streptococcus. Now please don't think I am fond of prying these imposing terms off my teeth. I'll explain what hemolytic means and then drop it for the rest of the game. It means blood destroying; or more specifically the dissolving of red blood corpuscles. Some germs have the faculty of doing that, notably the notorious streptococcus. While we're explaining let us explain what streptococcus means. It means a coccus that occurs in the form of chains, like strings of beads. That characteristic readily distinguishes this species or kind of germ from, say, the staphylococcus which occurs in the form of bunches, like bunches of grapes, or the diplococcus which occurs in pairs.

We have long known that some of the very worst cases of acute sore throat of very infectious character are caused by the streptococcus strains, both hemolytic and others. We have known that this same germ is responsible for many cases of acute tonsillitis, and the famous Drs. Dick in this country, authors of the Dick test for scarlet fever, have shown by actual experiment on volunteer subjects that inoculation with the same strain of streptococcus will produce simple sore throat in one person, scarlet fever with no rash in a second person, scarlet fever with typical rash in a third person and perhaps erysipelas in a fourth person.

The English investigators believe that any such acute sore throat of the streptococcus class may be followed or complicated by what is quaintly called by the old "acute rheumatism" or by acute inflammation in the ear, just as so often happens in cases of scarlet fever. They find that there are at least four groups or classes of hemolytic streptococci which cause scarlet fever, group I being highly virulent, that is, the former produces severe scarlet fever the latter only mild or abortive illness if any.

There is a popular notion that "scarletina" is a milder illness than scarlet fever. Perhaps "scarletina" is the name people give to cases of scarlet fever due to group III of group IV streptococcus.

So it is necessary to recognize that in any epidemic of scarlet fever or of sore throat, the virus may be spread by persons who purport to have nothing but a slight "cold" or a simple sore throat. This is just one more good scientific reason why people who value their own health and respect the rights of others should accept and practice my teachings about "cri." Even if you are not willing to do unto others as you expect them to do unto you, at any rate it can never harm your own health to beware of what you catch in polite conversational spray, whether the epidemic is a large one or just a little household, office or shop outbreak.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Violet and Ultraviolet
Kindly advise how long a violet ray treatment a person should take the first time . . . skin peeled off for several days . . . began to be dizzy when I walked . . . had my blood pressure taken and it was normal . . . (M. W.)
Answer—Assuming you mean ultra-violet ray (which has no color) the quantity and duration of exposures should be decided by the physician administering such treatment. Only a physician is competent to apply the treatment in any case.

Caked Breast
My daughter, aged 10 years, has what the doctor called "caked breast," for the past several months. It does not seem to change . . . (Mrs. H. K.)
Answer—Usually the best treatment for such a swelling is a strict let alone policy, perhaps with a light bandage or brassiere for support.

Arsenic
I am taking arsenated which my doctor says is good for my condition. But since reading your article about chronic arsenic poisoning being responsible in some cases of dead fingers I wonder whether I ought to continue taking it. I did not tell my doctor about the dead fingers . . . (Mrs. M. V. J.)
Answer—Tell him and he will advise you. If you cannot have the regular attention of your physician, you had better not continue taking any form of arsenic long. No one should.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

THE rope was twisted 'round about the giant and there was no doubt that he would soon be tied up. Scouty whispered, "Work real fast! This best, you see, for our own sake, because the giant might awake. And, don't forget, when we are through we'll run away real fast."

"Be sure his hands are tied real tight, 'cause he will fight with all his might to free himself," said Duncy. "He is mighty strong, you know. There's very little left to do. Let's hurry until we are through. When there is no more rope to use, away we'll quickly go."

All of a sudden Coppy said, "Look out! I saw him move his head. I think we'd best let him alone until he snores some more. If he should wake up now, I fear that we'll be doomed to stay right here. I also am afraid that he would spank us all were sore."

And so they rested for a while and shortly Scouty spread a smile and whispered, "We can finish now. He's snoring very loud. There isn't very much to do. Let's hurry now until we're through. Gee, when we run away we'll be a mighty happy crowd!"

But then there came a big surprise. The giant opened up his eyes. He looked around and then he said, "What are you up to now? Ah, ha! You've tied me to the ground. You think that I am safely bound. But I can get right out of this and I will show you how!"

Of course the Tinymites were upset and startled when they saw him get right up and start in stretching. And it wasn't very long until he stood and laughed in glee. "Your ropes are much too weak," said he. "You Tinymites ought to know by now that I am very strong."

(The Tinymites are put to work again in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — When the democrats organized the house the youthful Wright Patman of Texas had not as much cause for rejoicing as did some of the other gentlemen from the Lone Star State who sit with him.

It didn't mean the speakership for him as it did for Jack Garner. It didn't mean that at last he could take over the chairmanship of a powerful committee as it did for Sam Rayburn, Hattin Summers, Marvin Jones and Joseph Mansfield—all Texans.

Patman had not been "in" long enough even to think of such things. A congressman must sit much longer than one term before big plums fall his way.

But democratic control of the house did mean one thing to this one-time farm boy from the sand hills of east Texas: He could now speak "as one with authority" on that subject closest his legislative heart—full cash payment of the bonus to ex-soldiers.

Pans' Mellon
And young Mr. Patman is doing that very thing these days. Every time he can slip away from his office he has done so. Since the convening of congress he has managed to appear in as two widely separated cities as Boston, Mass., and Columbus, Ohio.

He doesn't flick an eyelash when he tells his listeners that it is possible for the government to pay at this time an estimated two billion dollars or more to world war veterans.

He seems firm in the belief that Secretary Mellon, as he says, "deliberately and wilfully created a deficit in the treasury" to defeat legislation authorizing payments to veterans. And he charges that Mellon did so by making payments on the national debt in excess of what the law required.

Patman is perhaps the champion "panner" of "Uncle Andy" Mellon in the house.

Jack Garner used to be, but since his elevation to the speakership he'll probably not be as outspoken. Perhaps he is satisfied with the way his fellow Texan is doing the job.

At any rate he has gotten as far as threatening to bring impeachment proceedings against "Uncle Andy."

Stormy Career
Patman's whole course in public life has been rather stormy. He launched his legislative career by declaring war on the Ku Klux Klan in his home state.

As a prosecuting attorney he fought vice and graft in Texarkana. So relentless was he in his campaign to clean up the city that his life was threatened. The governor assigned rangers to guard him.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — The theater kids Hollywood because producers out there keep authors and others on the payroll who are supposed to have ideas, but don't.

The practice amounts to subsidizing had serious critics have pronounced it gross extravagance.

The first articulate defense of this situation I ever heard came from Samuel Goldwyn, who is fairly boiling about all the razzing of the movies.

"Sure, we have what amounts to a subsidy for some idea men," said Samuel in his $1,000 a month hotel suite, "and frequently there is no return for the salary paid through the run of the contract."

"But usually you'll find the men coaxed along that way in Hollywood, have proof or promise of creative ability."

When these men do crash through with something original, it may mean box office returns far in excess of a bunch of speculation salaries, Goldwyn holds.

"It has one expensive man working for me who never gave me a thing. Yet when I let him go, another producer signed him up because he knew the fellow had the goods in him."

"You see, for all our critics say, making movies is not exactly like manufacturing tin cans or sewing machines. We can't evaluate every artist on the quantity production basis."

By this time Goldwyn was lecturing with rigid, pointing forefinger and plentiful grimaces.

"Take your theater," he asserted with a sort of scorn, "the managers are airing a lot of grievances, but the fact of the matter is the legitimate stage is lacking in sufficient numbers of competent playwrights and men of ideas."

"Why? Because the theater has not made any provision to adopt promising men and nurse them along. If there had been such subsidies in the theater, don't you believe the stage would have more to show you today?"

Not Guilty
Under the strict letter of New York law, Sunday dance concerts are illegal. Mary Wigman, the German ultra-modernist, arrested for performing on the Sabbath, was released when a bewildered policeman told a magistrate she was merely "making motions" to the accompaniment of a piano.

SINKING OF BRESLAU
On Jan. 20, 1918, the German warship Breslau was sunk and the battle cruiser was damaged in a battle with British naval forces at the entrance of the Dardanelles in the eastern Mediterranean.

The Goeben was run aground, after being badly damaged, but it managed to free itself and escape into the Dardanelles.

These two ships had escaped from Admiral Troubridge at the beginning of the war, and were sold to Turkey. The ships were named the Goeben, the Sultan Selim, and the Breslau, the Midulla.

H. M. S. Lizard attacked the Breslau and the Goeben. Both returned the British ship's fire. The Lizard was then joined by H. H. S. Tigress. H. M. S. Ragland was heavily hit, and it sank.

Stanning away, the Breslau exploded suddenly, apparently striking a mine. Two or three minutes later there were three more explosions. She heeled over and sank.

On seeing the Breslau sink, the Goeben circled her once, and then steamed off to the south.

RADIO PROBLEM FLARES AGAIN IN CONGRESS

See Plenty of Verbal Fireworks on Matter Before Session Ends

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1932, By Cons. Press.
Washington (CPA)—Radio is flaring up as a pet topic for congressional discourse and before the current session is over there will be plenty of verbal fireworks on the subject.

First in order will be a fight over filling the existing vacancy on the federal radio commission, created by the voluntary retirement last week of Judge Ira E. Robinson as commissioner of the second or east-central zone. Although the senate already has expressed itself on the subject of radio advertising, similar steps are expected in the house of representatives. A number of measures already have been introduced to amend the radio act of 1927 and more are in the making.

The appointment of Thad H. Brown, at present general counsel of the commission, to fill the commission vacancy is expected momentarily from the white house. Notice already has been served, however, by Senator Couzens, (Rep.) Mich., chairman of the powerful interstate commerce committee, that he will oppose the nomination. Other members of the senate have indicated opposition also and unless President Hoover switches his reported plans and nominates someone else, there is certain to be a fight over Col. Brown's confirmation.

Objects to Politics
Senator Couzens visited the white house last week and presumably discussed the matter. He said he regarded the contemplated appointment of Col. Brown as the "payment of a political debt" and that he resented the idea of filling commissions created by congress, through political patronage.

Next to Brown the man most prominently mentioned for the second zone commissioner is William D. Terrell, director of the radio division of the commerce department. The government's first radio official, Terrell worked under Hoover for 11 years while the president was secretary of commerce. Opposition also exists in the senate. Terrell. Other possibilities for the appointment are Ellis A. Yost, chief examiner of the commission, and Dr. G. B. Jolliffe, chief engineer, each of whom resides in the second zone and therefore is qualified for the post.

Breaking down of the so-called "clear channel" system is proposed by Senator Dill, (Dem.) Washington, in a bill introduced in the senate, on the ground that it results in a waste of radio facilities. Under present regulations 40 of the 90 available channels are set aside for the exclusive use of one high power station on each channel during evening hours. Senator Dill contends that these channels can be duplicated on the two coast stations without causing interference. His amendment proposes that stations be duplicated on clear channels when separated by 2,300 miles or more. Thus the clear channel stations along the eastern seaboard and those along the west coast would be duplicated. Those in the interior of the country, apparently would not be affected, because the requisite separation could not be met.

Senator Dill also proposes that any new stations which may be established as a result of this provision will not be counted in the quota of facilities of the particular area involved.

RIVERS AND MANKIND DISCUSSED BY BAGG

Dr. Rufus M. Bagg of Lawrence college compared rivers to mankind in his weekly geological lecture sponsored every Monday afternoon by the Appleton Woman's club at Science hall. Dr. Bagg pointed out that rivers have a span of life, passing from the youthful stream to prime and thence to a decline.

He told his audience how river beds change, discussed the velocity and force of streams and the formation and sources of rivers. As an illustration of the strength and speed of water, Dr. Bagg declared that the North Platte river in Nebraska at one time carried enough sediment to raise a bed 70 feet. He pointed out that this river dug a channel one season and filled it up the next. He also said that in the space of about one minute the Mississippi river carries 33 carloads of sediment past New Orleans.

Dr. Bagg will present two more lectures in his series.

DEFENDS STATE LAW ON GRADING OF EGGS

Madison (CP)—In answer to protests against the recent decision of the commissioners of agriculture and markets to drop the regulations regarding the buying of eggs, A. A. Brown, poultry marketing specialist, states that dealers and others are now free to buy eggs on grade as before, or they may buy ungraded eggs.

The action to drop the rulings regarding buying grades was made in response to a resolution adopted by the legislature, but the fact that there is now no state supervision has met with protests from many sections, Brown said.

Stop that Cough Quick!

Men, women and children everywhere are amazed at the quick results from the first swallow of Thoxine—a doctor's famous prescription. Stops the cough at once and goes direct to the internal cause preventing further trouble.

Taken before retiring Thoxine absolutely prevents night coughing. It gives the same speedy relief for sore throat, too. For the whole family—guaranteed no dose. Money back if not satisfied. 35c. Voigt's Drug Store and all other good drug stores. Adv.

TODAY and TOMORROW

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Europe's Hope
THE latest reports from Europe indicate that the governments feel themselves unable to deal now with the reparations problem and are seeking ways of delaying the decision. The proposals for delay seem to range from six months to five years; the underlying idea in all of them is to postpone real decisions until after the French and American elections. The optimists believe that the statesmen will deal more realistically and less dogmatically with the problem when it is no longer necessary to run for office and make campaign speeches. The theory of postponement involves, of course, the granting to Germany of an extension of the present total moratorium. There are no two opinions in Europe about Germany's present capacity to pay anything. The Basic report settled that. But what does not seem to be appreciated, or if appreciated it is not faced, is that under an extended moratorium the German situation can only become worse. The moratorium is not only notice of Germany's insolvency but a pressing invitation to German and foreign capitalists to take their money out of the country as fast as possible. In spite of all attempts to prevent it, the German situation is continuing, and nothing can arrest it except a restoration of German confidence by a settlement which the German nation accepts. An extension of the moratorium almost certainly means a further drain of the life-blood of the German economy—a further deflation, an increasing restriction of imports, still greater unemployment, and still deeper deterioration of Germany's standard of life. The risk is terrifying. The price is an exorbitantly high one to pay for the fact that governments do not find it politically expedient to face the question now.

The determining cause of the European disposition to seek a postponement lies in the fact that as matters stand, Britain and France might have to choose either to bear the whole cost of relieving Germany or to face the tremendous peril of repudiating or defaulting on their war debts to the United States. The declaration by Congress last December leaves them with these two alternatives. It is easy to see why the governments prefer to take the risk of a general European collapse, originating in Germany, to the odium at either horn of the dilemma. M. Laval can at the moment settle with Germany only by renouncing the whole French post-war position on debts and reparations. Mr. MacDonald, even if he settles with Germany, is left with the obligation, to make payments which might be disastrous.

Nevertheless, understandable as are their feelings, the proposal to postpone is, it seems to me, based upon a dangerous illusion. It is that the views of Congress will soften after the Presidential elections, and that then it may be possible to reduce reparations by reducing war debts and avoiding the assumption of the whole cost and the odium of default or repudiation. The fallacy of this view is in the gamble that Congress will soften after the election. By all the precedents it may be predicted, I think, that however enlightened and moderate the two Presidential candidates may be, the individual Congressmen running for office will outbid each other in declarations of their undying determination to collect the last red cent. That is the obviously easy position to take, to assure the harassed American taxpayers that none of their money will voluntarily be surrendered.

There is only one thing, in my opinion, which would change this. That would be such an aggravation of the present crisis that the American people would consent to any measure which promised relief. The European governments certainly cannot wish to have things become so bad as that. For costly as the crisis would be here the destructive effects in Europe would be infinitely worse. They had better make up their minds, therefore, that Congressional opinion is not likely to change if they do nothing and let matters drift to the edge of disaster. A

NOURISHING AND BEAUTIFYING THE TEXTURE OF THE SKIN WITH JEAN NOLAN TISSUE CREAM

As with all living tissue, the skin must be nourished, toned and stimulated to develop its natural beauty and fine texture.

Jean Nolan Tissue Cream is a skin food and tonic for the complexion.

Clothing protects the skin of our bodies, but our face and hands are constantly exposed to the harsh contact of sun, wind and dust.

We must protect and clean the skin, to prevent roughness, wrinkles and coarseness of texture.

Jean Nolan Tissue Cream gently patted on with an upward motion stimulates the growth of new protective tissue and helps preserve the natural elasticity of the skin.

EXPERT ADVISES INDIVIDUAL TO KEEP INSURANCE

Risk Companies Have Maintained Financial Impregnability

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)
New York.—It is easy to give advice on investments but to many of us in these days the advice is worthless because we have no money to invest. In fact it is all some of us can do to keep the money we have already invested. If we consult the quotations for securities on the financial page we can be persuaded we have not succeeded in keeping even that.

There is one thing, however, which we can and must do in justice to ourselves and to those dependent upon us and that is to make any sacrifice necessary to keep up our life insurance. Throughout the entire depression, a depression in many respects unequalled in the history of the country, the great life insurance companies have maintained their deserved reputation for financial impregnability. Policy holders who needed funds always have been able to negotiate loans on their life insurance when they could not secure them anywhere else. As the wave of unemployment mounted and as wage reduction multiplied the demands on the insurance companies increased but they were always met.

Now it is often necessary to borrow in this manner but it is a privilege that ought not to be abused. Generally speaking it ought to be the last resort and always it ought to be the first obligation cleared up when circumstances permit. To take any other course is unfair to the beneficiary the life insurance was originally designed to protect. Meanwhile whatever other economies have to be practiced the premium on the insurance policy must be paid.

Probably there are people who carry too much life insurance but they are very rare. Most of us carry too little, and none of us can in these times afford to permit a policy to lapse if there is any way of keeping it in force.

Speaking of the Weather--

by CHARLES TALMAN of the U.S. Weather Bureau

MAPS, CHARTS, BULLETINS, REPORTS ALL FIGURE IN WEATHER BUREAU WORK—MANY ARE VITAL TO FARMERS AND ECONOMISTS

Every week the U. S. Weather bureau issues an illuminating sheet called the "Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin." This is published chiefly for agricultural interests, but it contains much of general value.

There is a summary of the week's weather, with a statement of outstanding abnormalities, particularly of temperature and rainfall over appreciable areas. Paragraphs about weather in Argentina, England, India and Australia are added. The special telegraphic summaries from the several states or sections of the Weather bureau show the details of the week's weather and its effects on crops and farming operations. A table gives the weekly rainfall and temperature and the departure from normal for 150 stations, and two maps show the temperature departures and the actual amount of rainfall.

The temperature map is a peculiar one. Shaded portions indicate regions warmer than normal, and unshaded regions cooler than normal, while the lines on the map indicate the extent of the departure, e. g., three, six or nine degrees plus or minus. Hence the region having the highest figures is not likely to be the warmest, nor is that with the lowest figures necessarily the coldest.

In the preparation of this bulletin the officials in charge at designated central weather bureau stations in each state collect the information weekly from many special and cooperative meteorological observers and from a large number of weather and crop correspondents in the respective states relative to prevailing weather conditions and their effect on farming operations and crop development. These officials make weekly telegraphic reports to the central weather bureau office at Washington, D. C., where the information is tabulated and summarized.

ized and a synopsis issued for the entire country. This is released each Wednesday at 10 a. m. and is published in the "Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin" above described. In addition there is published a local weather and crop summary at each state center containing information in more detail as to conditions prevailing in the respective states. There is also published at New Orleans a "Weekly Cotton Region Bulletin" covering conditions in the cotton belt as a whole, and at Chicago a similar report pertaining to the principal grain-producing states.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. W. H. John Butler, Mrs. G. H. Hickey, Mrs. J. P. Rehn, Mrs. J. J. Fennel, Mrs. J. J. Vaughn, Mrs. John Regan, Mrs. Glis Courtney.

HEAR STORIES ON LIFE OF LIVINGSTON

The life of David Livingston was outlined in the program at the meeting of the Women's Union of First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon at the church. Mrs. E. J. Peterson presented his boyhood, Mrs. Harold Babb discussed his wife and family, Mrs. Carl Ebert gave a sketch of his journey, and Mrs. L. Powers spoke on his association with Stanley. An account of his death and burial was given by Mrs. Ebert.

Mrs. Ernest Hasselblad gave a talk on the song, "Church in the Valley," which was sung by Mrs. Babb and Mrs. Lyman Clark. Twenty-seven members were present. Mrs. H. Sandborn had charge of the devotional, and the program was under the direction of the Livingston mission.

Plans were made for a dinner to be served soon. Mrs. Peterson was appointed chairman of the event.

Plan To Pick Outstanding Woman Here

MEMBERS of Appleton Business and Professional Woman's club will decide, by ballot, who is the most outstanding woman in this community and will honor her at the March meeting, according to an announcement made at the meeting Tuesday night at the Woman's club. Cards were passed out to the members at the dinner Tuesday night, and these will be marked, collected, and counted as soon as possible.

The club is negotiating to secure Edna Ferber, novelist, and playwright, to speak at this meeting.

Miss Irene Reinke gave a summary of articles in the "Independent Woman" and Miss Lydia Holbeck distributed booklets containing the committee and plans for the state convention. Mrs. Mabel Shannon gave a report on social work being done. The sum of $23 was collected by means of envelopes. This will be used to help with social work. Fifty-two members were present.

A card party will be given the evening of Jan. 29 at Conway hotel for the purpose of raising money for the convention. There will be an informal card party at the Woman's club in February.

Mrs. Fred Jentz reviewed "Black Daniel" by Honore Wilsie Morrow at the meeting of the General Review club Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. O. Koppin, 1015 N. Appleton-st. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Elmer O'Keefe, S. Walnut-st.

Miss Signe Wimmerstrand, N. Onondaga-st., entertained the Bea Zey club Tuesday night at her home. Prizes were won by Miss Dot Doolen and Miss Hilda Boldt. Miss Viola Behnke was a guest. The club will meet next Tuesday at Mrs. Joseph Dellin, E. Wisconsin-ave.

Two new members, Miss Margaret Kunschnabel and Miss Myrtle Rundhammer, were admitted into the Triple K club at the meeting Tuesday night at the home of Miss Flora Neuman, 1346 W. Second-st. Speakers at Women's Peace Rally

These women of national prominence will be leading speakers at a forthcoming rally, sponsored by the Women's International League, which will be held in Washington in the interests of peace and freedom. They are Miss Katherine Devereux Blake, upper left, of New York; Mrs. Gerard Swope, upper right, of New York; Mrs. Ben Hooper, lower left, of Oshkosh, Wis.; and Miss Ruth Nichols, lower right, noted aviatrix.

Moose Will Send Group To Green Bay

ABOUT 25 members of Loyal Order of Moose of Appleton will go to Green Bay Sunday to attend the institution of a new lodge there. The Appleton group will leave about noon, and the activities will start at 2 o'clock. Anyone wishing to make the trip is to notify M. W. Lueders or E. E. Cahall to arrange for transportation.

A number of national and state officers will attend, among them George M. Ward, Moosehead, Ill., general dictator; Paul Schmidt, deputy supreme secretary; and J. J. Geraghty, Milwaukee, district supervisor. Visitors will be present from Marinette, Sturgeon Bay, Kauwaunee, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Milwaukee, Kaukauna, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Wausau, Clintonville and Appleton. A lunch will be served to visitors and the activities will close about 7 o'clock in the evening.

Announcement was made at the meeting Tuesday night that the next second degree lodge will be held at Fond du Lac on Feb. 7. Seventy-five members were present. Al Cube and R. Kimball entertained with Hawaiian music and the Moose quartet, composed of M. W. Lueders, Ed Casper, William Casper, and Al Nitz, sang several selections. A lunch was served. At the meeting next Tuesday, a comedy skit will be presented by Nelson Gailpeau and Lawrence McGullan.

MASONS HONOR PAST MASTERS

Past Masters' night was observed at the meeting of Waverly lodge, No. 51, Free and Accepted Masons, Tuesday night at Masonic temple. Dinner was served at 6:30 after which the ceremonies took place. About 170 persons were present.

Past Masters who took part in the ceremonies were G. E. Buchanan, W. H. Kocks, A. H. Wickesbeig, J. Trautman, W. W. Ingenthon, A. L. Franzke, G. Packard, A. O. Mead, G. Spelman, R. Hackworth, C. D. Thompson, and A. C. Remley.

WOMAN ILL AFTER DRINKING LYSOL

Mrs. Gortula Daniels, 28, 611 N. Appleton-st., mother of two small children, was made seriously ill by drinking a quantity of lysol at her home at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. She was returned home by Mr. Daniel, when he returned from Police Chief George T. Prim and Sheriff John Lappen were summoned and took her to St. Elizabeth hospital in the sheriff's car. Dress Child For Sturdy Rugged Life

BY ANGELO PATRI

We wear out too many washrags on the children. Every time Susan appears with a smudge upon her cheek mother reaches for the washrag and rubs it off. Somebody gives Susan a bit of chocolate and she enjoys it all over her face. Mother sees this with dismay. Susan is brought in the washrag is brought out. "Goodness, I'd think to keep my face and hands clean a little if I were you. Want people to think you are a ragamuffin or what? There you're clean again. See if you can't stay that way for a few minutes."

Susan returns to her play. The mudpies go well but her hands are grimy. In the heat of baking day she wipes them on her front, rubs a muddy hand on the end of her nose, steps in a puddle of muddy water and slashes herself well from head to foot.

"What? What's this? After all I told you. Susan Caldwell, shame yourself for a dirty child. Come right into the house and I'll wash you again and this time you stay in the house. I can't stand with a washrag in my hand."

You don't need to. Too much washing is bad for the tender skin. One day's dirt never hurt a child. A warm soap and water bath before going to bed will keep the messiest child clean enough for the day. At meal time a wipe with a soft washrag will be enough. If it becomes imperative to clean a child's face in between times us a wipe of cold cream and a soft rag. So much soap and water is likely to cause chafing. These cold days while cold cream will remove the dirt without irritating the skin. But wash the child only when it is necessary, not every time he sneezes his face and hands.

"Ma, can I bring Tom and Harry into our yard today?"

"It's your turn to go over there, son. Maybe their mother wouldn't like it."

"No, I guess she wouldn't. But they would, Can I, Ma?"

"Tell me why."

"She is such a cleaning mother. She makes us come in and get washed if we get a little dirty even. We have to keep stopping and going in to get washed and we can't get anything done, that's why. Can I, Ma?"

Children do not like to be interrupted by the washing. Neither do they like to have their mother scold. If somebody came along every once in a while and said, "Oh, my goodness me, you're dirty as a pig. Here's a washrag. I'll scrub you."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to families from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Illustrating early stages of religion in its evolution toward Christianity with personal experiences among savages of Borneo, Sumatra and India. Prof. J. R. Denyes of Lawrence college will begin a study of religious thought next Sunday morning at First Congregational church. This will be the second of a series of open lectures on the Evolution of Religious Thought sponsored by the Men's club of the church, which meets at 9:45 Sunday mornings.

Last Sunday Prof. Denyes laid the background for his lectures with discussions of words and their meanings, such as "evolution," "religion," "moslem." His topic will start with religion before 2,000 B. C., previous to Abraham's time and will take religious thought from Animism to Christianity. Dr. Denyes has spent many years in countries where savage religions are parallel to those of earlier times.

The meeting is open to all men in the community with the following in charge of the series, Dr. D. S. Reynolds, Carl Foreman, Earl Lutz, C. C. Nelson, Frank Younger.

DENYES WILL BE SPEAKER SUNDAY AT CHURCH HERE

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

Starts Tomorrow morning at 8:30

Here is the long awaited Semi-Annual Clean-up SALE of remaining Fall and Winter merchandise. As you know, the prices at this store have been very, very, LOW this season... but it remains for this event to start the landslide to the very bottom. Practically all staples as well as style goods are included. In most cases (particularly in staples) the quantities are sufficient to take care of a big demand. However, to make sure of getting what you want, plan to come as soon as possible. Every department is included in this "Clean-up". Without a doubt it will be January's outstanding sale in Appleton. The bargains offered will attract thousands of customers.

From Thursday, Jan. 21 to Saturday, Jan. 30

GAMES RESUMED IN INTERCLASS TOURNEY

Neenah-Kaukauna team in the high school inter class district tournament defeated the Ripon team Tuesday noon by a score of 18 and 7 in the only game played that day. Playing was to have been resumed Wednesday afternoon. The Sturgeon Bay and Kaukauna teams are leading, each having won three and lost no games. There are 17 teams taking part in the tournament, each team named after some team playing ball in this district.

USE NEW TEXT IN COMMERCIAL CLASS

Old Courses Did Not Have Problems That Were Life-like Enough

Neenah—An advanced text, General Business Science by Jones and Bertschi, is being used by the freshmen commercial classes of Neenah high school instead of the former Business Arithmetic and Penmanship texts.

With the old course best results were not obtained as the problems were not life-like enough according to the commercial department. Specimens of the students' handwriting are now being tested and if the writing does not equal the average specimen necessary for every day business purposes, Edmund Ladwig, head of the commercial department, stated that penmanship practice will be employed for a short part of the period each week until the desired standard is reached.

The objectives of the commercial department are to give the student the necessary training to fill satisfactorily the commercial positions that are open to high school graduates, to give the pupils an understanding of those fundamental principles of business which are useful to all persons regardless of their occupations; to furnish fundamental courses for future study in commerce; and to instill a desire for further training necessary for promotion to higher future positions.

LARGE CROWD AT BRIGADE PROGRAM

Speakers Tell of Work of Organization Since It Was Founded

Neenah—The first of a series of programs given by the Boys Brigade took place Tuesday evening at First Methodist church with James Keating presiding. The program was attended by a large group of parents, teachers and friends of the organization. The program opened with singing "Faith of Our Fathers" led by Ambrose Owen. The Rev. T. J. Reykadal, Brigade chaplain, gave a prayer which was followed by a talk on "How and When the Boys' Brigade Was Born" by S. F. Shattuck, who told how the organization started with a few boys under direction of the late Rev. J. E. Chapin, and how it had continued through 32 years to its present condition with the largest enrollment this year in history.

William Draheim, speaking on the subject "A Boy Who Reached the Brigade Objective" reviewed the life of Maurice Barnett, a former Brigade member who lost his life during the World War. Following another hymn, E. J. Aylward spoke on "Brigade and Citizenship," citing the activities of the brigade. Marks Jorgensen, one of the young graduates of the brigade, told of the annual camp at Onaway Island.

Following another hymn, a service of reconsecration was conducted. The program closed with a song.

MANY ATTRACTED TO EXHIBIT OF ANTIQUES

Neenah—The exhibit of antiques and articles used in the homes and by people of Neenah in the early days, now open in the Manufacturers National Bank community rooms, is attracting large groups of people. More than 3,000 articles, ranging from gowns, quilts and rugs to hand made pieces of furniture which have been preserved in the homes in some instances for more than 100 years. Many of them are heirlooms of great value, which have been loaned to the bank for this show. Each article is marked with a description of its origin and by whom exhibited. Several of the city's older residents are on hand to give information concerning the various articles.

The exhibit was arranged as part of the bank's fiftieth anniversary observance and will be open afternoons and evenings throughout the week.

BROADCAST NEENAH PROGRAM ON SUNDAY

Neenah—Neenah will go on the air over station WTMJ next Sunday afternoon during the weekly "Tribe to Wisconsin Cities" period which is conducted by that station between 5 and 5:30 each Sunday afternoon. According to E. G. Zabel, secretary of Neenah-Menasha association, who is planning a program for the occasion, Norton Williams, reserve vice president of Equitable Reserve association, will be the speaker, giving a history of the city of Neenah. William A. Daniel will furnish the musical numbers with a program of baritone solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Anette Sindahl Matheson.

A Menasha program will be broadcast on Jan. 31.

CAPITAL STOCK OF FIRM IS REDUCED

Neenah—An amendment has been filed in the office of Selva G. Stocum, county register of deeds, to the articles of the Strobel Hardware company of Neenah, diminishing the capital stock of the Neenah firm from $60,000 to $45,000. J. P. Strobel signed the amendment as president and John Powers as secretary.

FINED $100 FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Man Arrested After His Car Collides With Three Other Cars

Neenah—George Cedarberg was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and costs Wednesday morning when taken into court charged with drunken driving. The arrest was made Tuesday night after Cedarberg had collided on N. Commercial-st with a car owned by Earl Grapenberger, 1008 N. Franklin-st, Appleton. After the first collision, the car continued along the curb in front of the Stackers and Schmidt store, where it struck a car owned by James Klopp and before coming to a stop ran into a yard north of the Stackers and Schmidt store where it collided with a car owned by Francis Olson, and stopped within a few feet of the side of the building. None of the passengers in the three cars were injured.

NAME DEMOCRATIC PARTY DELEGATES

14 Neenah and Two Menasha Citizens Are Chosen at County Meeting

Neenah—Fourteen Neenah and two Menasha people have been selected delegates to the Democratic conference to be held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at Hotel Retlaw at Fond du Lac. They are: George A. Jagerston, Dr. M. N. Fitz, John Stilt, N. G. Remmel, Sam Williams, E. M. Hutton, John Schreibeis, Gilbert Neff, Sr., John Studley, Mrs. John Studley, Clarence Schultz, Mrs. Clarence Schultz, Carl Jersild, John Plingie, Charles Korotev and Frank Haertl.

The delegates were selected Tuesday evening at a meeting of Winnebago Democrats at the Oshkosh Guild hall at which Dr. C. J. Combs was chairman. The meeting was well attended.

George A. Jagerston of Neenah, was endorsed at the county's representative to the national Democratic convention to be held June 27 at Chicago. Mr. Jagerston represented the county four years ago at the Houston, Tex., convention.

DAMAGE SUIT BEING RETRIED AT OSHKOSH

Neenah—Drawing of a jury for beginning of a retrial of the cases of John Stommel of Menasha, versus James Antonsen, Manitowoc contractor, and Walter Stommel, by guardian, against the same defendant, took place Tuesday in circuit court.

The Stommel actions were before the jury last September, and the defendant subsequently obtained an order for a new trial on the basis of objections to court instructions.

The cases arise from an automobile accident Sept. 13, 1930, at Menasha. A car driven by Walter Stommel, son of John Stommel, was involved in a crash near Riverside park entrance with the car of the defendant. The father brought suit for $1,500 for damages to his car and other expenses and the son sued for alleged personal injuries. The injuries, according to the complaint, are permanent in nature, and he sought $5,000.

NEENAH-MENASHA CAGE GAME DATE CHANGED

Neenah—The Neenah-Menasha high school basketball game, scheduled for Friday, Jan. 29, at Menasha, has been changed to Saturday night, Jan. 30, on account of St. Mary team having a game on the former night at Menasha. The game will start at 9 o'clock, the preliminary game to get under way at 7:30.

The Neenah-Kaukauna game has also been changed from Friday, Feb. 5 to the following night on account of failure to secure officials for the former night. This will be Neenah's first home conference game.

APPLETON TEAM TO MEET NEENAH QUINT

Neenah—Appleton Mt. Olive church basketball team of the Fox River Valley Church league will come to Neenah Friday evening to play a league game with Trinity Lutheran church team at the parish hall. The Neenah team is holding second place in the league at present.

GIRLS' TROOP MEETS IN CHURCH PARLORS

Menasha—The Neppow group of Menasha camp fire girls, directed by Miss Alice Strong, guardian, met in the Congregational church parlors Tuesday evening. Regular camp fire activities were continued.

HUMMEL TO ADDRESS KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

OFFERS $3,800 FOR BUILDING OWNED BY CITY

Common Council Unable to Decide at Once Defers Action Until Friday

Menasha—Disposal of the former "teacherette," a city owned building at Broad and Milwaukee-sts, was brought before the common council again Tuesday evening when a bid of $3,800 was received from George Pierce of Menasha. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole and the committee on public buildings, but an immediate decision could not be reached during a recess and the meeting was adjourned until Friday evening.

Sealed bids on the purchase of the building were received by the council several weeks ago, but all were rejected. If the Pierce bid is accepted the amount will be paid in cash on receipt of clear title.

A petition, signed by more than 100 Third-st residents, complained of interference with radio reception and urged the council to take remedial action. The matter was referred to the city attorney and the Fourth and Fifth ward aldermen who were ordered to attempt to eliminate the trouble.

Tax Resolution

A resolution levying a direct annual tax against all taxable property in the city and having been proposed $125,000 bond issue for a Fifth ward school building and Fourth and Fifth ward school sites was passed. Funds to meet payments on the bonds will be received from the water and light department but the ordinance authorizing the direct tax levy is necessary to assure the legality of the bond issue.

The question of parking private automobiles on River-st was referred to the board of public works with a view to elimination of the practice. A number of complaints indicating that the private cars parked on that street interferes with truck service to industrial concerns and that fire trucks might have difficulty in negotiating the street in case of any emergency, has been received at the city offices. Major N. G. Remmel stated. The board will meet with officials of the industries concerned to discuss the necessity of official action.

Two Claims Filed

Claims against the city were lodged by Miss Lucy Hopfensperger and F. J. Budney. The Hopfensperger claim seeks reimbursement for damages done by dog to clothes hanging on a line. (The claim of F. J. Budney, former justice of the peace, totals $73.55 and was said to be based on fees uncollected while Budney was in office. Both claims were referred to the finance committee and the city attorney.

The petition of Jerry Heup for permission to erect an electric gasoline pump on the curb at 161 Main-st was referred to the board of public works and the city attorney. The Menasha Polish Falcon Athletic association and the Germania Benevolent society were granted dance hall licenses.

Nominations for city election boards will be brought to the council meeting of Feb. 2, by Mayor N. G. Remmel. Aldermen were urged to bring all desired changes to the mayor as soon as possible. The salary ordinance also will be passed at the meeting of Feb. 2, Mayor Remmel stated.

KIWANIANS HEAR CLYDE SPRINGATE

District Kiwanis Official Urges Correction of False Standards

Menasha—That the Kiwanis club work to develop the traits that are human and spiritual and to eliminate false standards was urged by Clyde Springate of Oshkosh, Kiwanis lieutenant governor of the central division, Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district, at a meeting of the club in Hotel Menasha Tuesday noon.

Through the acceptance of false standards of value, people have become "good time crazy," Springate stated. Parents as well as the young people have adopted such standards and many children are spoiled by lavish gifts as well as by improper training. The Kiwanis club, he maintained, is a good planting ground in which to develop worthwhile ideals.

In a brief address preceding the talk by Springate, Dr. G. N. Pratt, commander of Henry J. Lenz post of American Legion outlined aims of the American Legion relative to the organization of an unemployment relief committee. A Kiwanis club representative on the proposed committee will be named this week. Pratt also stated the creation of a public health commission and the adoption of municipal disease prevention measures.

Plans for a Kiwanis Valentine party Feb. 2 also were announced at Tuesday's session. The party will be held at the Memorial building or the Elks' club rooms, the Neenah Kiwanis club will be invited to attend, the entertainment, including dancing, vocal solos, a Washington program and a lunch has been arranged.

ALUMNI SQUAD STARTS

STAY CLEAR OF DRY PROBLEMS, PARTIES TOLD

Anti-Saloon League Speakers Say Question Is Not for Platforms

Washington —(AP)—The Anti-Saloon league biennial convention left behind it today a warning to the political parties to steer clear of prohibition this election year.

Reiterated by the speakers who mounted the platform at last night's final gathering, this theme was summed up in a declaration of policy which asserted "repeal or modification are not for party platforms or party lines."

With that the veteran dry organization went on record as opposing anything that might weaken prohibition: Referendums, resubmissions, state control, modification and beer proposals, as well as repeal attempts.

It scored particularly the Raskob "home rule" plan of liquor control, asserting:

"Let there be no mistake, Raskobian 'home rule' means eventually saloon rule."

Among the individual expressions was the declaration of Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement league:

"If there's any doubt, let any party have a wet candidate next fall and the women will give him such a licking as he never had."

Speaks For South
Dr. A. J. Barton of North Carolina, chairman of the league's executive committee, asserted the south would deny support to any presidential candidate either running on a wet platform or personally wet.

"A wooden horse filled with so-loons" was the label tacked on resubmission plans by Mrs. Elizabeth Titton of Cambridge, Mass., chairman of the women's national committee for education against alcohol.

Bishop Edward H. Hughes of Chicago, said anti-prohibition tactics consisted of "anonymousness, indefiniteness, untruthfulness and unlawfulness."

"If all the wet liars go to perdition," he added, "it will have Japan's problem of over-population."

The declaration of policy, adopted at the banquet meeting, said the league did not hesitate to leave prohibition questions to be settled by voters "in the constitutional way" of electing congressmen and state legislators. It pledged support to President Hoover in his enforcement program, describing present enforcement as the best the country ever had.

Prohibition Director Woodcock told the league this enforcement though improving was not perfect. He urged education to control demand while enforcement agencies cut down the supply.

Today state superintendents of the league contained conferences on their detail work, while the majority of the delegates headed for home.

WALTER LIPPMANN

WALTER LIPPMANN, internationally famous editor, scholar in political economy and brilliant analyst, today joins the Appleton Post-Crescent staff of contributors. His column, "Today and Tomorrow", in which he expresses his thoughts on current political and economic subjects, will appear in the Appleton Post-Crescent four times weekly. You will find today's article on page 7.

Formerly editor of the New York World, Mr. Lippmann wrote editorials that often were quoted in congress, editorials that were frequently discussed by newspapers, both in America and abroad, in their own leading editorials. Mr. Lippmann's editorials were not only widely read but widely respected.

There are two outstanding reasons for the importance and influence of Mr. Lippmann's writings. First, he writes with great clearness and power. Secondly, he interprets the news more interestingly because he knows the inside of the news. He is a friend of statesmen and of business executives and of diplomats. They talk frankly with him. What they tell him, though it cannot be printed, gives background and authority to his comment.

When the New York World ceased publication Mr. Lippmann went abroad to renew his contacts and study the rapidly shifting European scene at first hand. Upon his return last September he joined the New York Herald-Tribune, through which he has been expressing his opinions on such subjects as he selects. Through arrangements with the Herald-Tribune Mr. Lippmann's comments now are made available to the readers of The Appleton Post-Crescent.

Mr. Lippmann will write what he likes on whatever subject he likes.

The policy of the Appleton Post-Crescent has been to print the news as accurately as is humanly possible and to express its opinions only on the editorial page. Equally it has been the policy of this newspaper to give wide latitude to the expression of every shade of opinion.

We count it both a public service and a privilege, therefore, to add Mr. Lippmann's point of view to our column.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS"

If January 21st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:40 a. m. to 10:50 a. m., from 4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:40 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

Both adverse and propitious influences on January 21st will be due to the fair sex. In private life a woman relative or friend will "butt in," and business men will find trouble brewing through the malice or envy of female employees. The stars favour lovers of both sexes.

The child born on this January 21st will possess most of the vices as well as the virtues of the typical child of today. It will be very outspoken, full of life, and amusement mad. It will be irresponsible, and energetic in all respects but the practical. It will have exaggerated opinions about itself.

Born January 21st, you are an intelligent being without being mentally quick. You are slow on the "get away," but when you start, there is no stopping you until you reach your desired goal. Your efforts will always be the fruit of unflagging industry — a large per cent perspiration and a small per cent inspiration. You have very strong ideas about many things, and are not afraid to express your opinions. Your sincerity often runs away with you, and you say what you believe to be the right thing in both the wrong way and at the wrong time. In many of the graver games of life, your integrity is more important than cleverness.

Your talents from a material standpoint may be more value to others than to yourself, and your ability will probably be the cause of filling some one else's pocket more than yours. You are exceedingly fond of art, music and literature, but seem to have more ability in other studies or vocations. You have marked social tendencies, and you delight in giving pleasures to others. You are always kind, and you would not from intent hurt a fly. You are acquisitive without being miserly. If you wed, you will love with a "Darby" or "Joan" constancy.

Lawrence Cagers Lose Second Big Four Game To Carroll College

VANDER MUHLEN, HINCKLEY STAR FOR PIONEERS

Vikings Give Invaders Ten Points at the Free Throw Line

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
SOMEONE once penned the statement that a good little man can beat a big man, or something like that; and now let it be recorded that a couple experienced men both big and small can beat three or five big men with not so much experience — and the confidence that goes with it.

That was the situation at Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college last night when Art Denney's Vikings caged quintet lost a Big Four conference game to Vince Batha's Carroll college squad. The score was 34 and 25.

The experience we spoke of was in the person of one Auggie VanderMuhlen, center on the Carroll college five, one Don Hinckley, a forward and one Paul Clarkson, guard, all three of whom hail from the town that Al Capone made ridiculous.

Mr. VanderMuhlen is playing his third year at Carroll as is Mr. Hinckley. Mr. Clarkson is playing his second year. Collectively they have just enough ability and experience and confidence that nothing bothers them, not even a flock of Viking giants and they just go on and on like the proverbial river and make points and give Carroll wins.

Overcome Lead
That's what happened last evening. The Vikings trailed 4 and 0 shortly after the game opened and by all that's tried and proven should have been sort of down in the dumps. But they weren't and when, a few minutes later, Mr. VanderMuhlen sank a basket and Mr. Clarkson followed with a layup, the Vikings were well, that put Carroll ahead and ahead they stayed.

During the course of the evening Mr. VanderMuhlen sank four field goals, Mr. Hinckley registered with five from various angles and distances, and Mr. Clarkson scored with three. That was all the field goals Carroll got, and that was pretty much for the experienced boys.

The inexperienced boys, long on height and pulling a lot of things their coach, Mr. Arthur Denney, never, never told them to do, were members of the Lawrence squad. For instance, they played through the first half the game totally forgetful of the fact that long shots don't do a bit of good if you don't try to follow them up. Then they permitted Mr. VanderMuhlen to get loose for two buckets, and someone else lost count of Mr. Clarkson while he potted those three buckets just referred to.

Heaping fuel on the flames, the Vikings were guilty of a lot of wild running around late in the first half, aided and abetted by Carroll, they put one of the best ten man riots we've ever seen on a basketball court, a wild race from one basket to the other, like a lot of apple thieves with a couple charges of buckshot snapping at their heels.

The Vikings Give Game
The second half exhibition also was a rather weird performance, although not as wild as the first half. During the first half Lawrence allowed Carroll eight field goals and committed two personal fouls that netted the Vikings but a single point. Carroll, on the other hand, allowed three field goals and four points on three throws.

In the second half the Vikings went and connected for six buckets and three free throws but became very careless about their conduct and committed nine personal fouls that gave Carroll nine points out of 11 tries. Carroll counted but four field goals in that last half, two to Hinckley and two to VanderMuhlen.

All which goes to show the Vikings were careless about letting Carroll score from the field in the first half, and careless about fouling the Vikings and giving them free shots in the second half.

Bill Colbert scored Lawrence's first two points when he made two out of three free throws. Then Ben Rathoff looped a basket and VanderMuhlen 4 and 0. VanderMuhlen sank Carroll's first marker and after Lawrence got its fifth point on a free throw, Clarkson hit the hoop for two buckets in rapid fire order. That put Carroll ahead 6 and 5 and then Hinckley registered to make it 8 and 5. The change of events seems to show that the Vikings during the remainder of the half they performed badly and trailed 17 and 10 at half time.

Vike Hopes Revive
Hinckley opened proceedings for Carroll five minutes after the second half started when he sank a field goal. Eighteen seconds later Colbert popped one for Lawrence to revive Viking hopes.

Thereafter the Vikings did stage a bit of a rally for Colbert again scored a field goal. Bert Hall clicked off a couple and Haase crashed through with a long heave and Hall with a free throw. That gave Lawrence a total of 21 points which would have been all well and good had not the Vikings handed Carroll four markers at the free throw lines. The score at that stage of the game was 23 and 22 for Carroll.

Shortly thereafter the Vikings blew and Carroll scored five more free throws and baskets by VanderMuhlen, Hinckley and VanderMuhlen in the order named. Lawrence meanwhile was getting two free throws and a field goal by Felts and Haase and led 34 and 25.

In behalf of the Vikings it must be said they had the best in scoring effort, enough time to make a record of 10 points on shots or fouls on fellow ups by Vander-

Steve Hamas, New Heavy Sensation, College Boy Who Made Good In Ring

Hated to K. O. Tommy Loughran; "Always Liked Him" He Says

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK —(AP)—A big, finely muscled youngster with a wide, intelligent face, sat on the edge of a rubbering table, a robe about his naked shoulders, eight-ounce gloves on his hands.

"Remember kid," insisted the stooped old timer bobbing in front of him. "His legs are gone. Rush him to the ropes. Throw a wild right hand at his chin with everything behind it. Do you understand?"

"Yes sir, Mr. Harvey," said Steve Hamas, the finest young American heavyweight of the day.

A few minutes later in the Madison Square ring, Hamas rushed the veteran Tommy Loughran to the ropes and left the right hand go. That was the beginning of the end. Soon after he helped Tommy to his corner. As he walked back with one of his seconds he shook his head. "Always Liked Him"

"Anybody but him," Steve said. "I always liked him."

Hamas became the newest heavyweight sensation that night, the first big man from the college ranks to win a main bout in the Garden. He won 12 letters at Pen State, was intercollegiate heavyweight champion in 1927 and 1929, and played all sports. He became a professional fighter by accident. He wants to be a doctor some day and he will be. He is 25 years old.

His father, who runs a cigar store in Wallingford, N. J. made an athlete of him. He had a complete gymnasium set up in the back yard.

He has four brothers, Andy, Mike, Johnny and George. They all are athletes. The time Steve, third oldest, was ready for high school, his father had organized the five sons into a basketball team that toured the state. Mike, his constant companion, was the best basketball player.

He is Austrian in descent, a student, avid reader, unexcitable, indefatigable gymnasium worker, a great "finisher" in a ring and speaks five languages: Slav, Russian, Polish, English and profane. He loves big steaks and vegetables and thinks his only sister is the best cook in the world. He likes to start arguments, and then retire. He's a "ribber," a practical joker. His favorite remark is "You can't take it." He's a typical college boy.

With only four members of the team on hand the D. G. S. bowlers won two more games in the Elk Ladies league and improved upon their lead in standings. V. Ashman hit 138 and B. Wagner 175 and the team won the first game. The second went by the boards by six pins.

"E. Beck had a big evening as the Elkettes beat the Cracker Jacks in three games. She rolled 221, 212 and 254.

E. Schroeder showed 162, M. Becker, 138, and H. Glasnap 135 as the Tip Tops won three games from the Midgits. Only the last game was close, the margin being 14 pins.

Pressers won the first and second games from the J. Haug team and dropped the third when A. Welsgerber rolled a 201.

Teasers won two games from the Cubs. The team dropped the first game and copped the last two.

Coated Clashes With Outagamie Milks in Other Industrial Game

Appleton Pure Milk basketball team in the Industrial league of the Y. M. C. A. will be able to coast through this week's game which will be played tonight at the association gym. The Milks are booked with Co. D, quintet and as the guards have been making the grade in the last five weeks there is no reason to believe they have pulled out of their slump.

In the other game of the evening the Appleton Coated Paper team, loser in every game this season has a chance to get company in the cellar. The team plays the Outagamie Milks and if they can outpace the club the teams will be tied for basement honors.

Babe Ruth Tells Kids to Use Opportunities

New York —(AP)—Babe Ruth wants the kids to "knuckle down" this year in baseball—or whatever sport they prefer—and show what they can do for themselves.

The Babe told upwards of 1,000 of them at the Boys' club of New York last night that he expected them to "come through and show their appreciation for the opportunities they have been given."

Ruth delivered his message in a series of radio talks to boys aging from 7 to 17 or over. Accompanied by his trainer, Artie McGovern, Ruth was nearly mobbed by his youthful admirers.

His arrival at the clubhouse, at Tenth street and Avenue "A" on Manhattan's densely populated east side, was the signal for an outburst that aroused the whole neighborhood.

"I want to tell you boys that it's up to you to make the most of your opportunities," shouted the Babe from the platform of a hall jammed with more than 500 boys. "You fellows have chances that we didn't have when I was a boy. Learn all you can, whether it's important or some trade. After you have grown up and left this place, don't forget to come back and do your part toward carrying on this work."

His father, who runs a cigar store in Wallingford, N. J. made an athlete of him. He had a complete gymnasium set up in the back yard.

He has four brothers, Andy, Mike, Johnny and George. They all are athletes. The time Steve, third oldest, was ready for high school, his father had organized the five sons into a basketball team that toured the state. Mike, his constant companion, was the best basketball player.

Football is the greatest game he ever ran into. He was a great full-back at Penn State.

Fighting is a joke compared to football. On Penn State gridirons they knocked out two of his teeth, broke his wrist and ankle. He's been knocked down once winning 24 fights out of 27 by knockouts. He never misses a football game with in reaching distance, no matter who is playing. One of his problems as a fighter is to lumber up the hard muscles football left in his legs.

He was playing professional football when a mutual friend brought him as a fight prospect to Charlie Harvey, known as "old handclapper" because of his mustachios, one of the best beloved of all the ring veterans.

A year ago brother Mike became ill and Steve started with him in a battered old car for the Pacific coast. He took letters of introduction from Charlie Harvey to several fight promoters in case funds failed. They did.

Got Nine Fights
So Steve got nine fights and scored nine knockouts. He sent most of the money home. He ran out of fights. The panic was on. Charlie heard about it and sent him $100. Steve had just enough money left to buy the stamps to send it back.

"I don't know when I can repay you," he wrote.

Charlie had never met anyone like that in the fight game before.

Brother Mike got over his illness and found a job at $4 a day as an assistant carpenter.

"But we're worse off than ever," Steve wrote Charlie, "because now that Mike is better he eats more than $4 worth a day."

When Charlie had a birthday a few weeks ago everyone forgot it but Steve. Charlie has a hard time getting around as a result of two bad automobile accidents. Steve gave him a beautiful gold-headed cane. It was engraved:

"To a kid on his 66th birthday, from Steve."

When Steve got married in November he got Tom Heeney to telephone Charlie and tell him. He didn't dare call himself.

POINT CAGERS WIN FROM MILWAUKEE FIVE

Milwaukee —(AP)—Holding a two to one advantage in scoring most of the game, the Stevens Point State Teachers college cage team handed the Milwaukee Teachers their fourth successive defeat here last night, 20 to 17.

Coach Guy Penwell shifted the Milwaukee lineup several times but failed to find a scoring combination that could upset the Stevens Point team. Only a belated rally saved the local ped. from a worse beating.

WOLVES, SPECIALS, DELTAS WINNERS IN OLDER BOY LEAGUE

Only Two Games Played as Junior Merchants Forfeit to Delts

ONLY two games were played in the Older Boy basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. last night, the third going to a win for the Delts via the forfeit route. The Merchants were the losers. In the games played the Specials beat the A. I. R. 23 and 5 and the Wolverines thumped the Warners 20 and 8.

The Orstein Specials found the A. I. R. so easy they scored at will during the first half and soon had a lead of 18 and 2. In the second half the losers strengthened their defense and played better ball but the Specials' big lead.

Warner theatre quintet staged a great game against the Wolverines until the last four minutes of the fourth period. Then the Warner defense cracked and the team rushed to the front and won easily. The score at half time was 12 and 9 for the Wolves and remained that way until the fourth quarter.

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—The University of Minnesota hockey team defeated the Wisconsin sextet 10 to 1, in a Western conference game here last night. The Badgers were outclassed in everything but courage.

Displaying excellent combination play throughout, the Gophers' outskated and outlasted their rivals beyond comparison. The defeat was one of the worst ever received by a Big Ten hockey team.

The Badgers were handicapped because of little practice, their outdoor rink not having frozen sufficiently, while Minnesota has been drilling daily on an indoor rink.

Babe Ruth Given $180.18 For Every Play Last Year

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1932
NEW YORK —(CPA)—Babe Ruth's salary squabble with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, over what compensation the highest paid man in baseball today is to receive for he received $180.18. Every time he batted the ball safely, whether for a single or a home run, his principal contributions to the success of the Yanks, he received nearly $200 for it. He made three-base hits, the lost batting art in baseball, and 31 two baggers. All these are counted in. He is not credited with a solitary sacrifice hit. That shows how much the old-time sacrifice fly helps in his batting percentage. He failed to make one real sacrifice all season.

The Babe stole three bases and each time he stole he got on first by making a hit, so for stealing a base and making on the same joint play he received $360.36. He had 237 put-outs in right field and when he yelled "I got it" at the top of his voice and did get it, he was paid by the benevolent Colonel Ruppert the sum of $180.18. For the five throws he made to put out a rival player he also received $103.18 each.

No credit is to be given for each run the Babe batted in because this is included in the base hits he made. The Big Bam did make seven errors. Those of course do not help along the cause of his team. Possibly in justice he should refund to Colonel Ruppert the sum of $1,261.26 for these blunders.

Ruth clouted 46 home runs last season, or 14 short of his 1927 record. His home runs, isolated and valued at par, cost Colonel Ruppert $1,739.13 per homer. Every time, therefore that a chap drawing about $1,500 per year sat in the bleachers and saw Ruth bat a home run he could yell, "There goes 1760 dollars worth. Hooray! It's more than I get the whole year round."

Tidings from Dizzy Dean

ARITHMETIC, rhetoric and etiquette are being taken up in a big way this winter by Jerome H. "Dizzy" Dean, himself, it is reliably reported by Andy Anderson, of Houston, Texas. Andy writes:

"Andy French, secretary for the Houston Branch, has just returned from Missouri, where he saw Dizzy Dean. The secretary reports that Dizzy is studying!

"Just before Dizzy left Houston last year he got real confidential with the writer. Last summer I wrote him a letter for him and it was published in several hundred papers throughout the United States (by NEA Service). Dizzy appreciated the story, but indicated before he left here that he was going in for a lot of study so he could write his own yarns.

"This guy, Gene Tunney," said Dizzy, "was just a prize fighter, and he got to be a writer. Also, when I

JAKE SCHAEFER WINS AT CUE TOURNAMENT

Game Erratic but He Wins from Tiff Denton by 50 and 34 Score

Chicago —(AP)—Six topnotchers in the field of billiards, among them Jake Schaefer, the king of the 18.2 balklines, were tied for the lead as the 1932 world's three cushion championship tournament entered its second round today.

Of the five besides Schaefer, three were former world champions, one the defending champion and another a rank outsider never graced by the purple toga.

Schaefer made his title debut yesterday with a victory over Tiff Denton of Kansas City, a former titleholder, but he failed to make an impressive showing until the later stages of the match.

His game was erratic and he showed plainly that he was not yet at home on the three cushions. His stroke was still handicapped by the delicate 18.2 balkline touch.

Despite a weak start, however, in which he scored only 4 points in 15 innings, he piled up 46 points in the last 38 frames to win by a score of 50 to 24.

The first real upset occurred yesterday when Frank Scoville of Buffalo, turned back Allen Hall of Chicago, the tournament favorite, by 50 to 42 in 53 innings.

Sports Question Box

Q. Would you rate Al Foreman higher than Jack (Kid) Berg as a lightweight title contender? If so, why?

A. Yes. Berg has been defeated twice by Champion Tony Canzoneri, decisively each time. Berg does not even hold the lightweight title of his own country, while Foreman is the British Empire Lightweight Champion and holder of the Lord Londale belt.

Q.—Will a wrestler's hold inflict more pain than a fighter's punch? A.—All depends on the hold and the blow. While a fighter's blow causes some pain, it is generally agreed that a wrestler's hold is far more painful and more sustaining.

Q. Is Benny Friedman now tied up with a coaching contract? A. No, Friedman is open for one.

Q.—Did Rube Waddell pitch for the Athletics in 1914? A.—No.

Q.—Was Benny Friedman ever a head coach at any college? Answer—No. He was an assistant coach at Yale.

Q. Who appoints the football rules committee? A. It is appointed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

ORANGE CAGERS PLAY FRIDAY'S GAME AT ARMORY

Clash With Marinette, Northern Team Has Lost Four and Won One

APPLETON high school basketball team will return to the home lot for a game Friday night when it meets Marinette high school five at Armory G.

The Orange quintet has won all but one game this season and the invaders have lost all but one, that with Fond du Lac last weekend at Marinette. The highly rated Cardinals were topped off their perch by a count of 12 and 9, all of which may mean that Marinette has improved or that Fondy had an off night.

But while the Orange squad is thinking about Marinette it also will have an eye to the northeast, to the West Green Bay high school gymnasium, to be exact, where West and East clash in a game that will put on from the tie for the top position in standing.

The West Bays are rated one of the best performers in the loop because of their height and ability to handle the ball. However, Coach Louis Means of East has been bringing his team along nicely and they may surprise.

In other games carried for Friday night Oshkosh, now quiet definitely out of the conference race, will take on Fond du Lac at Fond du Lac. The game is the last for several of the Cardinal cage stars and the outcome will be pretty much a toss up. The Oshkosh offense failed against Appleton last week but may be working better against Fondy.

Manitowish and Sheboygan will stage a brawl at the Chair City. The game is another, the outcome of which is pretty much a question. The Shipbuilders have the material and so has Sheboygan.

Appleton's high school squad has been strengthened by the return of Howard Bowhly, forward. He is much needed in the Orange scoring machine which so far hasn't shown so well. The Appleton five depending more on holding the other team's score down than chasing its own count above the teens.

MAX OUT OF ONE JAM, GETS INTO ANOTHER

Makes Up With New York Commission, N. B. A. May Take Title

Chicago —(AP)—Herr Max Schmeling, the world heavyweight champion, and the New York State Athletic commission have made up, but Schmeling and the National Boxing association appear just about to have a serious falling out.

Just as Schmeling was making his peace with the New York commission by promising to sign for a championship match against Jack Sharkey in New York before July 1, General John V. Clinton, president of the National Boxing association, and chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, dispatched ballots to members of the N. B. A., asking them to vote on the question of vacating the heavyweight title, because of Schmeling's failure to defend, or sign to defend, it within the prescribed six month time limit.

Schmeling's troubles with the New York group began when he failed to keep a promise to give Jack Sharkey, whom he defeated on a foul in June, 1920, thus gaining recognition as champion, a return match.

All that time, however, the National Boxing association recognized Schmeling as champion, and sanctioned his title fight with W. J. (Young) Stribling, at Cleveland last July 3. Under the N. B. A.'s rules, he was due to fight or sign up by Jan. 3.

General Clinch yesterday decided that it was time for N. B. A. action and sent out his ballots.

Should the N. B. A. vote to withdraw recognition from Schmeling as champion, he would hold no title at all, his New York standing being that of a leading contender.

PISTOL, RIFLE CLUB WINS, LOSES SHOTS

Appleton Pistol and Rifle club won a match and lost one in shoot recently held, according to Helm C. Hussner, executive officer of the club. Firing against Armour "Tech" team five men on a team, four positions the Appleton riflemen were defeated 1874 to 1558.

In a match with Glendale Shooting club of Webster Green, Mo., and the Pennsylvania State Shooting club the Appleton team scored 562 points, Glendale 587 and Penn State 545.

as possible. If it transpires that the opinions of all those questioned at random coincide fairly well then these opinions may be taken as representative of the mass, and as such are entitled to at least as much consideration as the official views of the party leaders, expressed cautiously and with an eye to effect.

Weimar is an excellent place to begin the record of observation, because Weimar has had a National Socialist Minister, Herr Wilhelm Frick, as Minister of the Interior and of Education, the first Nazi to hold a Cabinet seat in Germany, and Weimar takes its National Socialism very seriously.

A long conversation with a Nazi school teacher, out of a job, and therefore a patron of the soup kitchen, but with all the more time to reflect on politics, elicited the following program of expectations for the Hitler government:

(1) Hitler will tear up the Versailles Treaty.

(2) Hitler will tell France to go to hell for her tribute money.

(3) Hitler will reinstate universal compulsory military service and recreate the old German army with at least 600,000 men.

(4) France will not dare to make a move against us but if she does try to occupy the Rhineland, we shall throw her out.

(5) Hitler will take back the Polish corridor, the German part of Upper Silesia, and our colonies; if France behaves herself she can keep Alsace-Lorraine.

(6) Domestic Policy

(1) Hitler will abolish the Republic.

(2) Hitler will give all the jobless jobs.

(3) Hitler will prohibit the Communist Party.

(4) Hitler will drive the Jews out of Germany.

(5) Hitler will make Germany for the Germans and if any foreigners want to do business here they will have to watch their step.

This program is not cited as the program of a responsible Hitler leader. It is not even cited as the program of an irresponsible Hitler leader. It is merely cited as the program of a common Nazi man, not beneath the average voters' intelligence, who had been a member of the party for three years, and who had gathered his political views from his political mentors, the National Socialist speakers and the National Socialist press.

It is likely that Hitler or any of his statements who have become more and more statesmanlike the nearer they come to the office of state, would denounce the lowly Nazi's program as imbecility or provocation. But the Nazi school teacher was neither an imbecile, nor an agent provocateur. He was merely a Nazi.

Furthermore, if his ideas had really been unusual they would not have been worth quipping. As a matter of fact, they coincide very closely to the views I have heard from Nazi all along the way through Germany, from workmen, students, traveling salesmen, hotel managers, farmers, factory officials, in Prussia, Saxony, Thuringia. And a student of the National Party's official program will recognize that the startling objectives listed in the immediate fulfillment in the Nazi school teacher's vision of Hitler's regime are in the last analysis the objectives of the official program, only a bit more forcefully put and simplified.

Attention Demanded

They are, in fact, the sort of objectives that Sigmund Freud has established as the basis of dreams: namely, wishes. But when wishes become common to masses so large that they comprehend something like the majority of a great people, and if these wishes threaten to become political bases for action, then the outside world must regard these wishes with the attention due political deeds, no matter how fantastic the dream may at first appear.

We took up the program point by point. First of all, Hitler would tear up the Versailles Treaty because "We were forced to sign the treaty and a forced signature is no good."

Second, Hitler will repudiate the reparations because "We did not start the war, and we owe nothing to those who did. It was we supposed to help rebuild the devastated regions of Northern France, we have done so long ago and we shall not pay another penny."

Third, Hitler will recreate the old German army. "Not because we want war, but because Germany has as good a right to security as any has. Anyway, France in her Versailles Treaty promised to arm if we disarmed and she has done so."

The fourth point was interesting, namely, said the Nazi, would not we be to employ force against Germany for two reasons: Because Hitler would have a military alliance with Italy and with England and would enjoy the friendly neutrality of America, and because Hitler would have created that army of 600,000 men.

"What if France does not wait for you to organize an equip your army?" I asked. "Were you ever on the front? Do you know what it means for an army without pursuit planes, without heavy artillery, tanks or gas to fight an army much greater in size and equipped with these weapons?"

"Yes," he replied, "I was on the front, but we would not have only the 100,000 men of the Reichswehr. Do not forget the Hitler Storm Troops and the Steel Helmets. And perhaps you have not heard that passenger airplanes may be converted into military planes easily. And in a sharp, quick fight you don't need heavy artillery, and unless you've dug into trenches you don't need tanks. As for gas—Germany has the greatest chemists in the world."

But the Hitler Storm Troops are mostly youngsters who never saw service," I observed. "How could they be of any use when they have never even had a chance to learn to shoot?"

Leaders Abundant

"Many of them have seen service," he replied, "and practically all the Steel Helmets are veterans, and, anyway, it doesn't take long to train men if you have the leaders. And the National Socialists certainly have the leaders."

Granting the Nazi's premises, the fifth point follows naturally, and a Germany that could frighten France into passive acceptance of the foregoing program would, of course, have little trouble disposing of Poland. As to the colonies, the Nazi pointed out that Hitler's alliance with England would presuppose British consent to German reoccupation of the African mandates.

On the domestic program it was hardly worth debating that Hitler would do away with the Republic that had brought such misery on the German people, would find a way as once by providing public employment to put the jobless to work, and so on. I asked, however, what the Communists would do if Hitler suppressed them if that were not perhaps a dangerous move. "We will have the power," he replied, "to get rid of the leaders, and with the leaders gone the Communist workers will come over to our side."

Variance In Opinions

This did not coincide with the opinions I had heard from Communist workers and the vision of 6,000,000 Reds driven under cover by a Fascist decree was not too reassuring, but the next and final question was the most important of all. "What," I asked, "would the National Socialists do if Hitler does not do all these things you expect?"

"That is unthinkable," he exclaimed. Pressed, however, for the sake of argument to accept the "unthinkable" as a rhetorical possibility, he reluctantly replied: "I suppose we would have to dispose of Hitler and do the job ourselves."

But the Weimar Hitlerite was reckoning with a Government in the Reich by Hitler alone in power, with an absolute majority permitting him to act without regard to other parties. From the perspective of early 1932 everything appears possible in German politics, but the probabilities appear to lean toward a Government by Hitler in combination with one or another of the "unthinkable" parties, with the Peoples Party and the Center Party. And to judge the possible effect of such a coalition upon the National Socialists it may be useful to observe the record of the Thuringian Government, where the Nazi Frick held office as Minister of the Interior and of Education from January, 1930, to April, 1931, in coalition with the Peoples Party and the other parties of the Right.

Remote Parallel

It is of course not possible to draw more than a remote parallel between a coalition regime by Hitler and another party in the Reich, where Hitler would have the leadership, and the Frick regime in Thuringia, where the National Socialists had only six out of fifty-five seats in the Diet and were only permitted a Minister's seat by reason of their key position. Several aspects of the Frick regime are, however, instructive for a forecast of what Hitler might be expected to do if he were to enter a coalition Government in the Reich.

Frick, who had been an official in the Munich Police Department at the time of the Hitler-Ludendorff Putsch in 1923, was tried for high treason with the principals of that ill-fated insurrection and sentenced, but, like the others, afterward amnestied. When he became a Minister in Thuringia the entire nation watched him intently as the first National Socialist to obtain a position of executive authority.

Against his regime the opposition parties brought the following criticisms:

He replaced a series of high police officials by National Socialists and did all he could to select new members of the police force from the ranks of the National Socialists.

He introduced into the schools of Thuringia a prayer appealing to God to deliver Germany from "betrayal and treachery"—a phrase interpreted by good Republicans to mean that he wished to deliver Germany from the Republicans.

He lifted the ban on a public demonstration against the Young Plan, but as a member of the Thuringian Government helped raise the taxes to pay the Young Plan.

He issued a decree forbidding jazz music and "all public performances and entertainment glorifying the characteristics and sentiments of the Negro," but resistance by hotel and dance hall proprietors reduced the decree to a dead letter.

He turned over the State Theatre to National Socialist demonstrations against their peculiar aversions, including the Republic and he put hindrances in the way of the production in the State Theatre to plays he considered not in accordance with the best Nazi traditions of Teutonic culture.

A few more venial sins are listed by his opponents, but this list contains the chief of his "crimes." Everything he did raised clouds of local dust, but only the first two items brought nationwide reverberations. Because of his replacement of police officials by National Socialists, the Government of the Reich cut off the Thuringian share of Federal tax receipts for support of the police and the quarrel was only settled after months of bickering.

The Frick attempt to Nationalize the police of Thuringia may be taken as a certain forecast of a like attempt by Hitler to Nationalize the police throughout the Reich if he were to come into power in the Federal Government and the control of the police. Of all the Frick actions this attempt appears the only one that need be taken seriously.

Armed Power Divided

In Germany the armed power is divided almost equally between the army, the Reichswehr of 100,000 men, and the police under local state administration, totaling also around 100,000 men. At present, in Prussia, two-thirds of the Reich, the police are under Socialist control, and the men themselves are generally credited with being loyal adherents of the Republic, though their officers have given evidence of sympathy for the National Socialists. The Reichswehr, supposed to be non-political, is believed to be a perfectly reliable instrument in the hands of its officers, but its officers are notoriously and understandably friendly toward the right, with its traditions of the old army. Hitler, it is believed, enjoys considerable sympathy among the Reichswehr officers, although it was the Reichswehr that riddled his putsch to pieces with one blast of machine-gun fire in 1923. But if, as it appears possible, Hitler was to gain power in Prussia before he gains power in the Reich, his first attempt, if one may judge by the Frick example, would be to Nationalize the Prussian police.

This action would appear politically as natural as plucking fruit. It was considered ominous in Thuringia because it was regarded by the Republican parties as the sign of preparations on the part of the National Socialists to seize power by illegal means. If Hitler takes power legally, however, his acquisition of control over the armed forces would mean that he had acquired the armed basis for him to continue in power, no matter how the votes might shift, if he came to power alone, or the armed basis for him to obtain unrestricted power by unconstitutional means if he came to power in a coalition with other parties. In other words Hitler, in power by means sanctioned in the Constitution, would attempt to obtain control over the armed forces in order to continue in power against the Constitution.

Prospect Alarming

This prospect is naturally alarming to the Republicans, but the irony of democracy makes it impossible for democrats to do anything about it and remain democrats. Almost their only weapon is the slogan that the police must be non-political. But the Social-Democrats now in power in Prussia lay great stress on having a police force made up largely of persons loyal to the Republic in order to make it difficult for opponents of the Republic to overthrow it. For this purpose the most loyal policemen, according to the Social-Democrats, are Social-Democrats.

If Hitler came to power he would presumably follow the example of the Social-Democrats and also the example of his party follower, Frick, by making a development of a police force made up largely of persons loyal to the Hitler government in order to overthrow it. Politically there appears little difference in the two procedures, though each side regards the same procedure in the hands of the other party as criminal.

In any case, the reaction of Thuringia to the regime of Frick is of value in measuring the prospects of the National Socialists in Germany as a whole. Frick passed out of office on April 1, 1931, after one of his party colleagues, writing in the party newspaper in Weimar, had described members of the Peoples Party as "without character," "incompetent," "lame," "corrupt," "low people," "cowards" and "doddering." The Peoples Party reacted to these compliments by withdrawing their support from the coalition with the Nazis.

Approve of Regime

Despite all the barrage of criticism leveled from the anti-Nazi press and platform against Frick out of every section of Germany, the people of Thuringia seemed to approve of his regime. The National Socialists have six seats among fifty-five in the Diet from the 1929 election, but representatives of their best enemies in Weimar regretfully admitted to me that the prospects were good for a 50 per cent National Socialist vote in Thuringia today.

A leader of Thuringian industry and trade expresses to me the most profound alarm over the prospects for Germany if Hitler comes to power. His were the classical apprehensions with certain interesting modifications. If Hitler kept his promises and defied France, then, in the opinion of this spokesman for commerce, the probability would be that France would not, at any rate immediately, occupy the Rhineland, but would give Poland encouragement and assistance in occupying East Prussia. In this case Germany would stand quite alone, since a Hitler government could expect no support from the Soviet Union, hitherto Germany's chief reliance against Polish aggression. War, disaster were the prospects, according to this view, if Hitler kept his promises.

On the other hand, if Hitler did not keep his promises, the Thuringian business leader, on the basis of his acquaintance with National Socialist psychology, was of the opinion that most of the Nazi rank and file would desert to the Communists. Civil war, anarchy, disaster were the prospects if Hitler did not keep his promises.

Other Possibility

Frick's record, however, appears to permit a different possibility. Looked at from the disinterested point of view of a neutral observer, his record appears more impressive for its mildness than for its ferocity. This, as has been emphasized is no certain criterion for what Hitler might do in the Reich. Frick, of course, had no opportunity to influence foreign politics. It is, however, of considerable interest to note that after a National Socialist Minister had been a member of the Government of Thuringia for fifteen months and had not carried out or had not been able to carry out a fraction of the National Socialist program, the National Socialists in Thuringia not only considered his regime highly satisfactory, but increased their forces to a point where their enemies concede them something like an absolute majority. If one may judge from this experience, Hitler might come to power in the Reich, take the "statesman's" line, conciliate France, and still have the following from Germany to the Communists. J. I. FRANCE PLANS RACE IN N. DAKOTA

Former Maryland Senator Enters Lists as Republican Candidate

Bismarck, N. D.—(AP)—Joseph I. France, first presidential candidate filed for the state primary election March 15, today informed friends he would campaign in North Dakota next month.

The secretary of state yesterday accepted petitions in behalf of the former United States senator from Maryland as a Republican candidate. They were filed by H. N. Tucker, secretary of the state Progressive Republican group.

A statement from the "France for President National Headquarters" at Washington, made public by Tucker, said the candidate would tour "in a campaign of discussion of the principles of constitutional government and especially of practical remedies for the emergency hardships from which the nation is suffering."

Agricultural problems will be the chief topic, France's statement said: "I am truly convinced that lasting prosperity for this nation can be achieved only when the farmers are prosperous. I myself am a practical farmer, confronted daily with problems of farm operation and can discuss these understandingly with other farmers."

His statement said he favored a moratorium on federal land bank mortgages, emergency relief for the unemployed through public works programs financed by bond issues, and sale of surplus grain and cotton at home and abroad on easy credit.

DEBT QUESTION UP TO FRANCE, GREAT BRITAIN

Hoover Not Expected to Recommend Further Moratorium to Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932, by The Post Co., Washington—While foreign governments may ask for a six months extension of the present moratorium, there is no indication that President Hoover would ask congress for its approval of that idea. In fact, there is every reason to believe the American government will not finally indicate its opinion that such a course would only mean a postponement of decisions that ought to be made by European governments now. A test central Europe drift into a worse situation as the flight of capital from weak countries continues.

The sentiment of congress is almost unanimous on the point that Europe must put its own house in order before it can expect any change in American policy. A six months moratorium was suggested in Europe on the theory that this would protect the matter from July 1, when the Hoover moratorium ends, until next January, when a presidential election in America will have been held and presumably congress will be in a different frame of mind.

Mr. Hoover would naturally transmit any European request if it were insisted upon, and he might even be persuaded to recommend its adoption, but Democratic and Republican leaders would tell him there was not a ghost of a chance of passage.

Must Share Burden

All this has developed because congress feels Europe must reconcile the differences that exist and that France particularly must show some sign of being willing to make sacrifices instead of expecting Uncle Sam to bear the whole burden.

If it is argued that Europe will not pay anyway, then the answer made by most members of congress is that France and Great Britain, the principal debtors, will have to take the consequences of voluntary repudiation. For the sake of their own credit standing with the investors of America, neither country it is believed would engage in a policy of repudiation.

Some indication of how members of congress feel may be derived from the speeches and statements of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, Republican, and close friend of Secretary Mellon. Mr. Reed insists that France has plenty of assets and has the capacity to pay America irrespective of whether Germany pays France. It will be recalled that Mr. Reed served as major of artillery on the western front and hence cannot be accused of indifference to the sacrifices France made during the war. He contends that if better terms are made on debt arrangements Great Britain is deserving of more consideration than the obtained when the war debts were funded irrevocably here.

It was considered inevitable here that France would endeavor to find a way to postpone the decisive stages of the reparation problems as long as possible because no French minister can stand a policy of concession on German debts. But sooner or later French opinion will discover that America's point of view is adamant and that only a round table agreement to spread the sacrifice among all the powers will cause any change of heart in congress. The American government, and this is as true of the executive as it is of the legislative, will make no further moves until France and Britain have come to terms with Germany. Such a move is deemed essential to the stability of Europe and the restoration of investor confidence. Any proposals that mean a delay in reaching such a conclusion will be regarded with disfavor here.

RIDE CONTROL, RUBBER CUSHIONING AND LONGER WHEELBASE GIVE PONTIAC RIDING COMFORT

With Ride Control—the newest development—you adjust shock absorber action to rough or smooth roads, by touching a button on the dash. Then, there is rubber cushioning at 47 chassis points—a remarkably complete system which insulates the motor and other mechanical units from the frame, and the frame from the body. The long wheelbase assures road-steadiness, and the enclosed, self-lubricating springs further promote easy riding.

Pontiac offers these important developments at no extra cost.

COUNCIL GRANTS EXTENSION FOR TAX PAYMENTS

New London Residents Will Have Until March 1 to Pay Their Bills

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—At the council meeting Tuesday evening an ordinance was passed relative to extensions in the business section. The streets referred to are N. Water and S. Front. In the future no signs stands, gasoline or air pumps can be erected. Those gas and air pumps now installed are exempt. All awnings and signs will have to be 6 feet, 6 inches above the sidewalk. A motion of Alderman Smith that the paying of taxes be extended until March 1 was passed.

A claim of Mrs. Oscar Blamer who stated that a gander owned by her had been injured by the car of a city employee was referred to the city attorney.

Permission to build sidewalks was granted to two property owners on Lima-st. Owners of five residences in the vicinity of Mill and Washington-sts. who desired a street light had their request referred to Superintendent Thomas of the light and power plant. The application of Arthur Manske and Harvey Greenleaf for grant drink parlor permits were granted. Alderman Schmalleberg of the Fourth ward thought it was time to call a halt on the granting of such licenses. He claimed that nearly every business house was a soft drink parlor. Alderman Thomas held that as long as each one granted brought in a $50 license the number should not be curtailed. On questioning of Poor Commissioner Kringle by Mayor Wendlandt it was brought out that Tuesday was the first day that no requests for aid had been received. Mr. Kringle stated that the number of applications for aid is increasing and that the city is now paying rent for 27 families.

CLINTONVILLE FIVE LOSES TO LEAPOLIS

National Guard Quint Handicapped by Small Hall and Low Ceiling

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Clintonville—The National Guard basketball quint of this city lost to Leapolis at that place by a score of 19 to 11 on Saturday evening.

The Guards were handicapped because of the small hall and the many beams extending across the hall about 12 feet high, making it impossible to shoot any long shots.

During practically all the first half the Clintonville boys were leading, but in the final period, the Leapolis team stepped out to win. Leapolis has been defeated only once this season and once last season on their home floor.

The game Saturday evening was refereed by the Marion high school coach.

Friday evening, Jan. 22, the Leapolis five will come here for a return game at the local armory. Free roller skating will follow for all attending the game.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 20, the P. W. D's will play the Neopit Indians at the Clintonville armory. The Indians defeated the Guards last week and the P. W. D's at an earlier date.

The marriage of Emil Tanty, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Tanty of this city, to Miss Evelyn Le Fleur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Le Fleur of Two Rivers, Wis., will take place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Luke Catholic church at Two Rivers. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents. Those from this city who will attend the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Tanty and daughter Mary.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Clintonville high school with the class of 1924. Since that time he has been employed in drug stores at New London and Neenah, after which he completed a course in pharmacy at Marquette University in Milwaukee. He now holds a position as druggist in Sheboygan, where the young couple will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Knister, Mr. and Mrs. G. Seidel, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barker and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell spent Sunday in Milwaukee.

Attorney Marle Brunner, member of the law firm of Brunner and Brunner of this city, was the principal speaker at the Woman's club meeting held Monday afternoon in the club rooms. Her talk was on the present period of economic depression. She told of the various causes which led up to it, and on past periods of depression through which this country has gone. She gave a historical outline of their causes and effects. Mrs. Irving Auld read a paper on "Women in Industry."

Rotarians met at Hotel Marson Monday noon for their weekly luncheon. The time was devoted to a discussion of a community charity plan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stein entertained at bridge Sunday evening at their home. Two tables were in play with Mr. and Mrs. William McCaw winning honors.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. C. A. Spicer at Calville, Wash., on Jan. 4. The Spicer family were former residents here. Mr. Spicer being the first photographer to conduct a studio in this city. Besides the widow, she is survived by one son, Glen Spicer of Fargo, N. Dak.

The Ad Association for Lutherans will meet Friday evening in St. Martin school hall. The speaker will be Alexander Benz of Appleton, vice president of the state association and E. E. Meyerhoff of Appleton, general field man for the organization.

A series of evangelistic meetings conducted during the past several weeks in Bethany church of this city and the churches at Navarino and Galesburg was concluded Sunday by the Rev. J. S. Otteson of Chicago. Vesper services were held at 4:30 Sunday afternoon at Bethany church, where the Rev. J. S. Otteson was the speaker.

The Rev. J. C. Jensen of Minneapolis, who spent 33 years doing missionary work in China, spoke at the morning services in Bethany church.

The Rev. J. S. Otteson and the Rev. J. C. Jensen left Monday for Philadelphia, Pa. They will spend some time in the east.

Brothers Meet For First Time Since Their Childhood

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Hortonville—"Do you know this man?" Mrs. H. J. Sanborn asked her husband last Friday, shortly after a stranger had dropped into the Sanborn place and introduced himself to her.

"Can't say I do," Mr. Sanborn replied, after studying the visitor with interest.

"Well, you ought to. He's your brother," his wife responded.

The two brothers had not met for more than 45 years. They were separated after the death of their mother, Mrs. John Pitz, at Branch, near Manitowish, in 1884. The younger Harry, then 4 years old, was adopted by Wellington Sanborn, Hortonville, and took the latter's name; while the elder, C. G. Pitz, who was 8 years old, retained the family name.

Adventurous years followed. When he was 16, Mr. Pitz joined the crew of a lake boat, embarking at Manitowish. For 38 years he served in one capacity or another on the Great Lakes. He was first mate of a tug, until he became captain of a private yacht. His present position, Mr. Pitz is married and lives in Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. Sanborn left Hortonville in 1907, lured by "black gold" in the western oil fields. For 12 years he

LUTHERAN CHOIR TO PRESENT CONCERT

Arrangements for Performance Under Direction of Arthur Blankenburg

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Clintonville—The choir of Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., will give a sacred concert at the Armory in Clintonville on Feb. 27 at 8 o'clock.

Valparaiso University is under the auspices of the Lutheran University association. In 1925 the Lutheran University association took over Valparaiso University and has since reorganized it as a modern, accredited educational institution. The Valparaiso University Choir is, therefore, a comparatively young organization, but it has already won an enviable reputation.

The choir's tour this year is carrying it through the states of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Michigan. Professor F. I. Schweppel, head of the Valparaiso University music department, is the director of the choir.

The local committee of arrangements is under the chairmanship of Arthur Blankenburg.

Almost $700 less for a Buick Four-Door Sedan in 1932 than in 1922! And quality, meanwhile, so vitally advanced that there is literally no comparison between the two models! For the new Buick Four-Door Sedan for 1932, listing at $995, is a Straight Eight with Wizard Control and scores of important advancements. Here is a record of value-giving that the motor industry, represented by Buick, actually achieved. And here is how the motoring public has rewarded Buick for the achievement: Today, as a result of Buick's policy of giving greater value year after year, America is awarding Buick more than three-to-one preference over all other eights in its price class. The reasons will be instantly apparent to you when you note the value-leadership of the new Buick Eight for 1932 with Wizard Control. Twenty-six models, priced from $935 to $2055, f. o. b. EXTEND TIME TO PAY TAXES UNTIL MARCH 1

Seek Petition for Referendum on City Aid for Industrial Development

Kaukauna—The common council at its meeting Tuesday evening extended the tax paying period to March 1. Alderman E. Brewster introduced the motion.

Following a suggestion by Mayor B. W. Fargo, petitions asking the city to include in its next referendum a question reading "Shall the city make an annual appropriation for commercial and industrial development," will be circulated this week. The amount for a city of this size would be $2,000. The question would be presented at the spring election.

Mayor Fargo reported on his conference concerning landscaping of city parks and the river bank. He told the council that arrangements were being made to have a meeting of the park board, council and citizens interested in the municipal building Wednesday evening, January 27, when a well known landscaper will speak.

The council voted to extend thanks to the members of the committee handling arrangements for the ceremony at the formal opening of the new bridge.

Another vote of thanks was extended to the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. for its assistance in relieving unemployment in the city during the past few months.

A report on the proposed site for the city dumping grounds was made by Alderman Walter Cooper. The new location of the dumping grounds may be at the eastern end of Fourteenth street. Inspection of the site will be made by Aldermen W. Cooper and Bert Roberts, and Frank Charlesworth, city engineer, this week. If the site is chosen a road will have to be built leading to the dumping ground.

Joseph W. Lefevre, city attorney, reported on the signing of waivers for completing the paving of Crook's ave. The project includes widening the street to 36 feet by addition of two eight foot strips on either side of the present concrete. The work will be started early in spring if the attorney succeeds in securing the signature of one property owner.

Bills were allowed, and a report of the city sealer of weights and measures was received and approved.

SOCIAL ITEMS

LICENSE NEEDED TO RUN BEAUTY PARLOR

All Employees of Shop Also Must Have State Permit Under Law

Madison—(AP)—A law regulating beauty parlors was passed by the legislature in 1919 and has been in effect since Jan. 1, 1920. It requires that the manager of a beauty parlor pass an examination and that all persons employed in a beauty parlor, under her direction, be licensed.

There are stringent rules regarding the sanitation and cleanliness of beauty parlors and all beauty parlors are inspected by a state representative at least twice a year so all patrons of beauty parlors are assured of clean towels, combs, etc. The public, as a rule, is not fully informed as to the necessity of sanitation in having branches of this work done, and from time to time reports reach this office that persons who are not efficient in this work, and who have not had any training along this line, do work in their own homes and in the homes of patrons, receiving in return for services rendered a so-called "tip."

The attorney general has ruled that a "tip" is a form of compensation and several persons were taken to court recently for accepting "tips" for work done in violation of the law. One person paid a fine of $50 and costs. It is immaterial whether a charge is made or not; if a tip or anything of value is accepted one is violating the law for doing beauty parlor work without a license. There is also a penalty for anyone aiding another in violating the law, and sometimes the public, which is innocent of this provision of the law, helps others to violate it. Persons who have branches of beauty parlor work done for them should demand of the persons doing the work that they show their license, and should see that this work is done in a beauty parlor which is inspected and approved by a representative of the State Board of Health.

MAKE PLANS FOR SOILS MEETINGS

Series of Conferences to Be Held Throughout Brown-County

Green Bay—County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh was at Pulaski Monday, to make arrangements for a series of day soils and alfalfa meetings there in February.

Other arrangements are being made for the holding of other meetings that week at New Franken, Morrison, Mill Center, Asherton, and Eaton. C. J. Chapman of the soils' department of the college of agriculture will assist Mr. Kavanaugh in conducting these meetings. Moving pictures will be shown in the forenoon and afternoon sessions. Samples of soil brought to the meetings will be tested for phosphate and lime.

The past two years have demonstrated the value of alfalfa and sweet clover as drought resisting crops, Mr. Kavanaugh said. He pointed out that practically the only green fields to be seen in the county the past two years, in the drought areas, were the alfalfa and sweet clover fields.

With alfalfa seed selling at from 10 to 30 cents a pound and with considerable home-grown seed in Brown County, it is hoped that the crops of alfalfa and sweet clover in the county will be greatly increased this year.

The annual banquet of the Brown County Holstein Breeders' association will be held Friday, Jan. 29. Mr. Kavanaugh announced today. The banquet committee, consisting

ASK U. S. TO CONTINUE BUYING FOREST LANDS

Millwaukee—(AP)—A fervent plea for the federal government to continue its policy of forest land acquisition has been made in a letter to James B. Buchanan, Washington, chairman of the house subcommittee on agricultural appropriations, by Mrs. Edward Le Budde, Milwaukee, conservation chairman for the State Federation of Women's clubs. The letter was written before Mrs. Le Budde heard that the committee was seriously considering complete elimination of forest land acquisition funds.

"The nation that can afford to lose $200,000,000 by attempting mythical control of prices in wheat and cotton and which can spend billions on obsolete battleships with which to kill imaginary enemies, might well afford to spend perhaps a tenth of this sum to reshingle the roof of the nation by planting cut-over lands, Mrs. Le Budde wrote.

Here in Wisconsin we are just embarking upon a reforestation program to rehabilitate our burned over, cut-over, tax-burdened north lands... If you plan for reforestation becomes an established fact, it will, of course, retard all our plans and will be a crying short of a calamity, not only to Wisconsin, but to the entire like states region.

of Joseph Hoskins, Matt Meulermans and Mr. Kavanaugh, will meet at De Pere Tuesday evening to select the place for holding the banquet and making other arrangements. Milton Dutton, secretary of the association and Art Collentine in charge of cattle sales for the College of Agriculture, will be the principle speakers at the banquet.

ORGANIZE NEW TEST GROUP AT DENMARK

Green Bay—H. F. Seales, fieldman for the Wisconsin Dairymen's association was in Brown-so Wednesday assisting County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh with the organization of the Denmark Dairy Herd Improvement association. In these times of feed shortage and low prices of dairy products it is important for a farmer to know what comes in his herd are paying for their feed and which are not, as a guide to intelligent, profitable dairying, according to Mr. Seales.

SUNSET PASS by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Hiding behind a log, Trueman Rock listens to a conference between Gage Preston and his son, Ash—evidence which he hopes will prove them cattle rustlers. He needs information to save Thiry, Gage's daughter, whom he loves, from disgrace. Rock continues to work for Preston, despite Ash's efforts to intimidate him.

"Lay off nothin'. With all them orders fer beef? I guess not. Pa, there's room fer a thousand hides down in the old well."

"Ash, I tell you we'll lay off killin' till this suspicion dies down," said Preston, in hoarse earnestness, fighting for patience. "Wal, I won't lay off, an' I reckon I can boss the boys," replied Ash, implacably.

Then Preston cursed him until he was spent from passion. "This hyar rider, Rock," spoke up Ash, as if he had never heard the storm of profanity, "when you goin' to fire him?"

"Rock? Not at all," replied Preston, wearily. He was beaten.

"Wal, then, I will. He's been around too long, watchin' Thiry, an' mebbe us, too."

"Ash, haven't you sense enough to see that Rock's bein' hyar is good fer us?" asked Preston, girding himself afresh. "Never was a rider hyar so trusted as Rock. That diverts suspicion from us. It was lucky he came."

"But he might find us out."

"It ain't likely."

"He might stumble on to it by accident. Or get around Thiry an' scare it out of her."

"Wal, if he did, that wouldn't be so bad. He loves her well enough to come in with us. Only I'd like like hell to ask her to do it. I'm tellin' you, Ash, Thiry would like Rock if she had half a chance."

A knife plunged into Ash's vitals could scarcely have made him bend double and rock to and fro, like that thrust of Preston's.

"She'd like him, huh? So thet's why she made me promise not to pick a fight with him. . . . Hell's fire!"

"Wal, Ash, if circumstances come up we can't help or beat, what'n hell can we do? I told you ages ago that Thiry is bound some day to love some lucky rider. It can't be helped. An' it might be Rock. Which'd be most infernal lucky fer us."

"Lucky fer him! Haw! Haw! — I'd shoot his heart out."

Preston rose to loom darkly, menacingly over his son.

"You can't murder him in his sleep, or shoot him in the back. Thet'd look bad in Wagontongue. It'd just about ruin us. An' if you call him out to an even break — why, Ash, he'll kill you! Savvy? You shore ought to be keen enough to see it. Rock is cold as ice, as quick as lightning. He has a hawk eye. I'm warnin' you, Ash."

The son leaped up as if sprung. "Se!p me! Gawd! You're tryin' awful hard to keep us apart. Haw! Haw! . . . No, Pa, I don't savvy you!"

Long after the Preston stalked away Rock lay behind the log, thinking over the peril he had been in and the revelation that had accompanied it.

Late he stole like an Indian to his cabin. The certainty of the Prestons' guilt was not the staggering detail of that disclosure. Rock pinned down some grim facts.

Thiry had lied to deceive Ash as to her escort at the dance. Ash did not know then, but sooner or later he would find out. There was more suspicion directed toward the Prestons than Rock had known. The case was growing critical. Gage Preston knew it. He wanted to avert catastrophe; but for this vicious son he not improbably could have done so. But Ash Preston dominated father and brothers. He would ride to his doom. Rock had met many of that Western type, and every single one of them had died with his boots on.

Preston had told his son that Senor del Toro was Rock. Here Rock had an icy, sickening portent — one which he had been on the verge of before — Preston wanted to force a fight between him and Ash. He knew that Rock would kill his son. There seemed no other possible interpretation. He had deliberately suggested they persuade Thiry to make Rock one of them. By fair means or foul!

Preston sends Rock on a trip, tomorrow, that ends in open challenge from Hesbitt's riders.

LOAN STAVES OFF NEW YORK MONEY CRISIS

City Meets Obligations but Financial Problem Continues to Grow

New York — (AP) — A $12,500,000 loan enabled the city to meet $27,500,000 in short term obligations today and has staved off for the moment a crisis in its vexed financial problem.

The loan was advanced by one of the group of banks with which city officials have been negotiating for a much larger sum. It runs only until Feb. 1 and carries 6 per cent interest, the highest rate ever paid by the city and the maximum at which it can borrow under the law. The name of the bank was withheld.

Inasmuch as the amount of the loan represents less than half of the obligations which fell due today, the city was obliged to dip into its scant cash reserves for the balance as well as for funds to meet $5,000,000 in interest charges.

Controller Charles W. Berry said the city has $24,000,000 cash on hand. By Saturday a payroll of $1,500,000 must be met, making a total of $34,500,000, to be paid from cash and the loan. This will leave a cash balance of about $2,000,000, the lowest figure to which the city's cash reserve has fallen since the consolidation into Greater New York.

The fact that the 11-day $12,500,000 loan is but a palliative and that the city is on a hand-to-mouth basis is indicated by the problems immediately ahead. Before the end of the month additional loans must be negotiated to meet $50,000,000 more in short term obligations as well as funds for payrolls and other expenses.

The committee of the whole of the board of estimate added $14,464,903 yesterday to the total of projects upon which action has been deferred until the city's financial tangle has been unraveled.

Put Off Improvements
The action was begun last week when the board of estimate suspended indefinitely proposals for $110,114,121 in improvements as the first step in Mayor Walker's retrenchment campaign.

The largest item upon which action has been suspended is the proposal for the issuance of $78,859,000 in bonds for the development of the Delaware water supply.

The deferred items include $37,409,000 for water supply, $29,836,144 listed as general including water-front, lighting and public building improvement and $4,038,914 for schools. This figure does not include two school projects for which no estimates were given. Also there is a total of $1,357,924 in park acquisition and improvement items.

Another retrenchment move was made yesterday when several classes of skilled and unskilled city workmen on a per diem basis were ordered to work on a five day week.

A move has been made to obtain necessary legislative sanction for the reopening of the city's $631,000,000 budget for downward revision. Senator Samuel H. Hefstadter and Assemblyman Abbott L. Moffatt, both New York City Republicans introduced a bill providing for reopening of the budget. Chairman Joseph Clark Baldwin, the only Republican member of the board, also introduced a resolution calling for a request to the legislature for authority to reopen the budget.

Administration officials said no request had been made to the legislature for such permission and reopening of the budget first required a resolution adopted by the board of estimate.

ARRANGE SCHOOL TO INSTRUCT DRIVERS

New York Police Commissioner Hopes to Lower Accident Toll

New York — (CFA) — There are too many accidents in New York—too many due to careless or incompetent handling of motor vehicles. Police Commissioner Mulrooney said today and he ought to know. Moreover, he purposes to do something about it. His notion is a "safety seminar," to be run under police auspices and supervised by police officers.

Beginning on Feb. 1 in the Police academy, adjoining police headquarters, sessions of the safety seminar will be held biweekly. The students will be representatives and operating officers of corporations using large fleets of motor cars, such as taxicab companies, trucking concerns, storage warehouses, wholesale companies and department stores.

Since taking office more than two years ago Commissioner Mulrooney has been working in many ways to reduce street accidents and has succeeded, by educational work undertaken among the schools, civic organizations and corporations in cutting down the number of mishaps materially. Nevertheless, there is great room for improvement as traffic increases, and the commissioner believes that excellent results can be obtained by carrying on the educational work among people directly concerned with the operation of motor vehicles.

PROFESSOR TO DISCUSS INTERIOR DECORATION

Interior decoration will be discussed Friday afternoon at the Appleton Woman's club by Mrs. O. P. Fairfield of Lawrence college in his last lecture of a series on art appreciation. The lecture, which begins at 4 o'clock, will deal primarily with walls, pictures and draperies. The Appleton Woman's club is sponsoring the series.

Stars Of Yesterday's Movies Now Are Either Dead, Forgotten Or Unrecognized

BY DAN THOMAS
Hollywood—Names that sparkled in electric lights, five, ten, fifteen years ago are now referred to as "stars of yesterday." Cinematically they are dead—a few actually have passed on.

Constance Talmadge or Ruth Roland, once known wherever pictures were shown, could go any place today without being recognized. Even right here in Hollywood, where once they reigned as queens, they are almost unknown. Although married, Connie still manages to spend considerable time in the film capital. Ruth too lives here with her husband, Ben Laird, but her only activity in a business sense is dabbling in real estate—at which she has managed to acquire quite a fortune.

Then there was Edith Storey, who was a big star for Vitagraph. Now she is running a large chicken farm on Long Island. Flora Finch, another Vitagraph star, came out of obscurity a short time ago and announced that she is going to stage a comeback. And Carlyle Blackwell, who once gained considerable prominence appearing opposite Alice Joyce, plans to do the same.

Miss Joyce recently has been appearing in vaudeville, doing an act with her former husband, Tom Moore, himself a film star some years ago. Ruth Stonehouse, a name one seldom hears any more, is living quietly in Hollywood with her husband, Felix Hughes.

Ethel Clayton was found a few days ago playing a small role in "Hotel Continental," an independent production. Grace Cunard, once a famous serial star, still lives almost within the shadow of the old Universal studio, where she made her biggest pictures, and does small bits whenever she can get them.

Marguerite Clark, probably the best loved actress of her day, is making a success of being the wife of a large pleasure owner near New Orleans. Theda Bara, the first official film vamp, is living in Hollywood with her director-husband, Charles Brabin.

King Baggott, once a great star as well as a leading director, now is down and out.
Francis X. Bushman, a great favorite some years ago, is playing in a stock company in Chicago and occasionally lectures about the Hollywood of yesterday at the studio. J. Warren Kerrigan, one of the real virtue heroes of the old silent screen, has definitely retired and is living quietly in his small Hollywood home.

Nazimova and Alice Brady, both former picture notables, now are scoring hits on Broadway in the Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra." Mabel Normand, once known as the most beautiful woman in pictures, has retired and is living quietly in Hollywood. George Walsh, a former star in his own right, has given up acting for good and now is an assistant director to his brother, Raoul.

Betty Blythe, once a famous screen siren, made a picture, "Chu Chin Chow," in Europe a short time ago and still appears in vaudeville occasionally. Helen Holmes, famous for her railroad serials, may now be found near Sonoma, Calif., married to a rancher. And Helen Gibson, who succeeded her, still is trying to eke a scant living as an extra. Wesley Barry, one of the most famous boy actors, is an orchestra leader.

Some other old time stars who have disappeared from the public eye are Pearl White, Kathlene Williams, Norma Talmadge, Crane Wilbur, Marie Warkamp, Maurice Costello, Lillian Walker and Mary Miles Minter.

Among those who have passed on are Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Reid, Harold Lockwood, Sidney Drew, Lon Chaney, Dustin Farnum, Larry Semon, Miffie Little, Jeanne Eagels, William Russell, Gladys Brockwell, Barbara La Marr, Mabel Normand, Florence La Badie, Olive Thomas, Theodore Roberts, Clarine Seymour, Alma Rubens and Martha Mansfield.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press New York (CFA) — Perhaps as a bit of unconscious symbolism, representative Joseph Byrns of Tennessee fondles a jackknife, when he is talking or meditating. He knows how to use it. The appropriations committee acting upon his insistent demands as chairman, cuts $50,225,000 from the department of agriculture appropriations. He even undercuts President Hoover's recommendation by $10,000,000. No Republican can say this Democrat is on a spending jag.

Ever since he entered congress in 1909, he has been for trimming governmental expenses. His new chairmanship, which he has been aiming at for years, gives him his big chance. He was urged for speaker of the house, but illness caused his withdrawal. He returns with his running wing in mid-session form. He is well cast, his committee keeps watch on appropriations which at the last session of congress totaled $5,249,000,000. He is long and thin, beetle-browed, kindly and humorous. There is no attendant at his office door. He is a Nashville lawyer and an Odd Fellow, Elk, Shriner, Knight of Pythias and Red Man. He fights the tariff and would boost the taxes of the rich.

Several "quality" magazines have been beating a dignified tocsin for Judge Samuel Seabury for president. His New York graft hunt has been by no means a parochial affair and now that the state legislature gives him another year he moves up stage considerably. A former justice of the New York supreme court and former judge of the count of appeals, he is only incidentally a political figure. He is a Democratic candidate for governor.

Advocate More And Better Refuges For Ducks, Geese

BY BERT CLAFLIN

I have written several articles of late relative to the shortage of wild waterfowl which, without any question, exists today on the North American continent.

That an alarming emergency does exist is evidenced by the call to arms made by many prominent men throughout the country, in co-operation with like outstanding individuals of Canada, where three fourths of the waterfowl are bred.

More breeding grounds properly managed should result in increased annual crops of these birds. Not a speckling in a local sense the obvious answer is more and better refuges, adequately staffed and competently managed.

Carrying out the program to its logical conclusion, the next step is immediate action by the proposed International Agency—of which I have spoken in recent articles—to build up a coordinated system of such areas without heed to international boundaries.

Hundreds of thousands of acres will be required, for insufficient appropriations in the past have limited refuges in the United States of major utility to waterfowl, to a very few. Especially notable is the great lack of winter refuges.

Canada has a number of Dominion, Provincial, and private bird sanctuaries, public shooting grounds and other reservations suitable for waterfowl. Alberta has eleven Provincial Migratory Bird Sanctuaries on which shooting is forbidden at all times; Saskatchewan has four such, and ten on which shooting is permitted during open seasons; Manitoba has none.

There are 32 lakes set aside in Alberta for public shooting grounds, 12 in Saskatchewan and seven in Manitoba. Shooting is allowed on these waters during open seasons. The bird sanctuaries and public shooting grounds mentioned here were mostly Dominion reserves, turned over to the Provinces on Oct. 1, 1930.

In the United States several Federal appropriations have been made for the acquisition of areas for wild life. The more important appropriations were made several years after the passage of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918. They are as follows: 1924, $1,500,000 for the Upper Mississippi Wild Life and Fish Refuge, which is also a public shooting ground; 1929, $350,000 for the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge, also public shooting ground; and 1930, $250,000 for the Cheyenne Bottoms, and Kansas (not yet established.)

Under the act appropriations totaling $7,875,000 and are to be made over a period of 10 years. This amount includes in addition to the purchase price, improvement of the areas, maintenance and other expenses incidental thereto. Six areas totaling 112,000 acres were acquired.

In my next article I shall show you how tame wild birds become on sanctuaries, by quoting actual cases.

HABEAS CORPUS PLEA IS THREATENED IN HONOLULU SLAYING

Defense Attorney Demand Early Action in Case by Grand Jury

Honolulu — (AP) — While Hawaiian legislators pressed their program to reorganize Honolulu's law enforcement system and check the city's crime wave, defense attorneys threatened to seek release by habeas corpus of Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men unless the territory asks the grand jury by Thursday to indict them for murder.

City and County Attorney James F. Gilliland immediately promised to present the case to the grand jury Thursday.

Honolulu's most recent critic—the Kentucky legislature—was excoriated in the Hawaiian senate yesterday for proposing presidential interference in the prosecution of Mrs. Fortescue, and of the four remaining men accused by the building her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Massie. Mrs. Fortescue and Lieutenant Massie, U. S. N., are held as the slayers of the son of Mrs. Massie's suspected assailants, Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaii man.

Senator Charles A. Rice led the attack upon the southern lawmakers. He declared the Kentuckians' request could be paralleled by the insular legislature, asking President Hoover to declare martial law in Kentucky because of mine strikes there.

He summed up his feelings with, "I now ask them to let us mind our own business and we will let them mind theirs."

A resolution of the Kentucky legislature had urged President Hoover to use his authority to obtain conviction of Mrs. Massie's alleged attackers and the release of those accused of killing Kahahawai. Failing that, the Kentucky resolution asked that the president declare martial law in Hawaii.

The demand for speed in the prosecution of Mrs. Fortescue and her co-defendants as coupled with a statement by Montgomery Winn, defense attorney, that the Washington and New York society matron is still so nervous she "cannot carry on a long conversation without breaking into tears."

Legislative conferees and territorial and city officials agreed at a conference to make the pending bill for reorganization of the Honolulu police department effective Feb. 1.

Vegetable Gardens Are Both Luxury And Economy

Vegetable gardens in the home grounds serve two very different purposes—a substantial economy and a luxury. Vegetables vary widely in quality when they come to the table. This is dependent on their culture in the first place, their freshness, and the method employed in cooking them.

High quality is dependent chiefly on freshness. This can be obtained certainly only in the home garden. Vegetables with a large sugar content, such as corn and peas, lose it through natural chemical action within a few hours after they are taken from the plant. Sugar will have to be added to them in cooking to bring back a semblance of their natural flavor. It is never quite the same delicious flavor.

Fresh pulled radishes are crispier and snappier than those which have stood in the market and which must be iced and soaked in cold water for some time before serving to bring back a semblance of their original quality. Fresh lettuce is of finer quality than lettuce from the market, no matter how well refrigerated. The humblest garden can grow fancy vegetables as well as that of a millionaire. Seeds of the higher quality vegetables and which may need a little extra care to bring the plants through successfully can be bought as cheaply as the staples.

Commercial growers are conservative. They cannot afford to experiment much with new varieties. They know the little old timers that they know will thrive and produce standard crops for market. A home gardener can make experiments for improved varieties at little loss, even if the vegetable tried does not pan out. In the majority of cases they will prove to be all that is represented for them. They have been given severe and select tests before being placed on the market.

Each seed merchant has his special lines. They are worth trying for the production of better quality vegetables. There is a great variety of pea, sweet corn and tomatoes of

SPAIN TO DISSOLVE ORDER OF JESUITS

Decree Signed by President and Awaits Official Publication

Madrid—(P)—A decree dissolving the Jesuit order in Spain, the homeland of its founder, St. Ignatius Loyola, has been signed by President Alcala Zamora and awaits only official publication to make it effective, it was learned from a high

The decree did not appear in the Gazette today although it was said in official circles it was signed and ready for the Gazette's press, awaiting only the word of Premier Azana.

The opinion was expressed in Catholic circles that the government is unwilling to publish it while the syndicalist strike grips Galla. The situation also is complicated, it was said, because the government is slated to be interpellated on the Bilbao riots last Sunday.

The decree, which follows the adoption of a provision in the new Spanish constitution empowering the government to dissolve religious orders under certain stipulations also calls for confiscation of the prop-

The Jesuits have been expecting the dissolution decree for some time and, in many cases, the members have arranged to leave Spain, transferring their novitiates abroad, as soon as the decree is published.

SLUMP SPARES NO CLASS OF STOCKS, BONDS

Many Common Stocks, However, Show Up Better Now Than Bonds

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1932, by Con. Press
Wall Street, New York.—(C.P.A.)— One of the conspicuous facts of the two year decline in securities is that it has not spared any class of stocks or bonds. The strongest have declined with the weakest. Only in relative degree have the aristocrats of the investment market come through it in better standing than those issues whose inferior status is reflected in the low ratings attached to them.
This has left buyers of securities, and especially institutional investors, in a confused state of mind. The issues on which they have most dependent in the crisis have depreciated nearly as much as speculative common stocks. Bonds that were not legal for purchase by savings banks or trustees in many instances enjoyed firmer markets than those that had been elevated by law to a preferred rank. Frequently, the preferred stocks of a corporation were found to be steadier in price than the bonds prior to them. This was not altogether due to the condition of market demand or supply.

Utilities Loss Less
An illustration of this anomaly may be taken from the action of the high grade public utility preferred stocks, which went off last year on an average of about 20 points in comparison with losses of from 20 to 35 points in railroad and public utility bonds. There are also numerous cases of industrial bonds that have declined less in the past six months than United States government issues. The much berated foreign issues have a representative in French national and municipal dollar obligations that have had a uniformly steady market during the period of greatest shrinkage in the top grade of American corporation issues and in contrast with the 10 to 18 per cent discount in treasury obligations.
Out of its experience the public will eventually be compelled to make its choice of investments at between stocks and bonds. From 1924 to 1929 common stocks held the center of the stage. Comparatively few individuals purchased bonds or preferred shares.
There has latterly been a more friendly attitude on the part of public toward bonds. This is with a view to their speculative prospects after selling on such a depreciated basis rather than with regard to them as a permanent investment.
Position Bewildering
The attitude of the average buyer of securities today is that bonds made a sorry spectacle of themselves last year and that they have been found to be less vulnerable in a depression than common stocks.
Therefore, the public is just as likely to concentrate on common stocks when business conditions warrant entrance into the market as to go into bonds.
The position of the banking institutions not surrounded by restrictions as to investment in legal bonds and permitted to purchase both common and preferred stocks, is also one of bewilderment. The governor of an eastern state in his annual message to the legislature a few days ago criticized state banks and trust companies for holding common and pre-

Royal Family of Strife-torn Japan

Emperor Hirohito, ruler of strife-torn Japan, and members of his royal family are shown here. Besides the international controversy raging over Japanese troops in Manchuria, Hirohito's empire is torn between those who want Japan to keep Manchuria and those who advocate a course more pleasing to China and to other nations. The pictures show Hirohito, upper right; Princess Teru, upper left; Empress Nagako, lower left, and Little Princess Taka, lower right.

ferred stocks, the implication being that if they had limited their investment portfolios to bonds their financial position would now be superior to that existing. This fact is still to be proved. Anyone who has made an analysis of the bond holdings of the average interior banks knows that its greatest losses and those that are less likely to be recovered were in foreign bonds and in the refunding, debenture or collateral trust issues of the newer public utility holding companies. Few of their common stocks showed as much percentage of depreciation as did the former classes of securities.

Many Stable Stocks
As for their preferred stocks, which were mainly those of strong power and light operating or holding corporations, they have established a record for relative stability that should give them a future status alongside many mortgage issues.
There are few arbitrary standards in investment practice that can be set up by banking authorities to prevent depreciation on a substantial scale during a financial crisis. There are many common stocks intrinsi-cally of greater value than bonds that day after day go into the security accounts of private investors and institutions. It is not possible to buy either common stocks or bonds as a group without discrimination between individual members of the group. There should not be as much stigma on a bank that legally holds a common stock like American Telephone & Telegraph, Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe, General Electric, General Motors or United States Steel or such senior shares as Consolidated Gas, Public Service, Electric & Gas of United Gas & Improvement as for carrying any one of a dozen railroad or public utility bonds that were brought out under good sponsorship two or three years ago and located primarily in the por-folios of the regular buyers of new issues. The bad name which common stocks always develop in times like the present could be cleared with a little study of what constitutes the real elements of a sound investment.

RAILROAD LABOR ASKS ABOUT ROADS' DEBTS
Chicago — (A.P.) — Railway labor brushed aside all talk of adequate return on railway investments Tuesday and asked the nations carriers just what bills they had to pay with the savings they anticipated from a 10 per cent wage cut.
Plunging into plain talk on the problem of wage cuts for the first time since the conference of brotherhoods and railway presidents convened a week ago, labor spokesmen put this question directly up to the employers:
"If the railroads are in dire need, what are the bills you owe? Why do you need financial assistance?
Are you asking us to accept wage reductions just because other industries have reduced wages?"

FILIPINO LEADER BACKS ROOSEVELT

Senate President Thinks Islanders Will Cooperate With Governor

Manila — (A.P.) — Confidence that Theodore Roosevelt, new governor of the Philippines, would receive the cooperation of the islanders was expressed here Tuesday by Manuel Quezon, president of the insular senate.
Informed the United States senate had confirmed Roosevelt's appointment, the veteran Filipino leader said:
"I have every reason to expect that his administration will meet with the cooperation of the Philippine legislature and the people in general. I pledge him my support in everything that will promote the welfare and happiness of the Filipino people."
Quezon said he was impressed by the interest Roosevelt has shown in the promotion of home industries in Porto Rico while he was governor there and his efforts to improve the lot of the working people and small land-owning class.
Other Filipino leaders were guarded in their statements as Roosevelt is little known on the islands.
Confirmation of the appointment was announced in the midst of a campaign to raise funds for a publicity campaign in the United States advocating Philippine independence. Leaders, saying $1,500 monthly was needed to carry on the campaign, called upon the native chamber of commerce of the Philippine islands to aid in the canvass.

Many Conferences Precede Naming Of Motion Pictures

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, By Con. Press
Hollywood — (C.P.A.) — Probably you've often wondered how they lot titles for pictures but the mystery is now solved. It isn't all done by mirrors as some people have contended, and the man who names sleeping cars doesn't have the hit or miss picture, title concession. You're wrong, too, if you think a picture is named for anything the producer happens to be thinking about at the moment or for his favorite cross word puzzle.
It's done by conferences. A whole system of them.
About 600 motion pictures are produced in Hollywood each year and for these pictures many thousands of titles receive consideration.
So you see how it is. As a rule every picture has hundreds of titles submitted for it and frequently the title finally chosen was the one submitted in the first place. Just an old Hollywood custom.
First there's a conference among the writers who have taken a whack at writing the story. They lie awake night thinking up snappy titles but remembering that the Hays organization frowns upon the word "scarlet" as well as upon profanity.
Then every worker on the lot is given a chance to suggest a title; that is every worker among the executives, authors, directors and advertising employees. Some times an advertising employee has cherished in his mind a title like "Sex Aloft" or something and he turns it in regularly until, ah, one day it's selected whether it has anything to do with the plot or not.
Before the picture is even in production, titles begin to flow into the executive offices. The executive offices go into flaming conference.
After weeks of flaming they choose a few dozen titles and send them on to the executive offices in New York which meanwhile have also been in conference for a number of weeks.
The New York offices pick out perhaps a dozen titles—six from New York and half a dozen from Hollywood—and argue about 'em. By and by a title is selected which more or less pleases every one.
Supposedly the title must have something to do with the story. In addition to this it should be "intriguing, concise, alluring, curiosityarousing and indicative of the type of picture." If it isn't any of these little things, the failure is not due to lack of cerebration and perspiration.
Lack of inspiration is generally the trouble.
U. S. TAX HEARINGS TO BE CONCLUDED JAN. 25
Washington — (A.P.) — The house ways and means committee is about ready to stop hearing opinions and settle down to the business of juggling revenue figures into columns that will total the government's expenses.
It decided Tuesday to end hearings on Jan. 25 with the expectation of submitting a revenue program to the house by Feb. 1.

TRAPPER DEFIES ROYAL MOUNTED

Additional Force of Canadian Police Sent Into Arctic Region

Kaklavik, N. W. T.—(A.P.) — Defiance of the law by a crazed Rat River trapper barricaded in his cabin about 80 miles south of here drew 10 Royal Canadian Mounted police across the vast whiteness of the Arctic today.
The party left Aklavik Saturday and no word has been received from it since.
Albert Johnson, the trapper, has been sought since Dec. 31, when he shot Constable A. W. King as King sought to question him about complaints by Indians that Johnson was molesting their trappings. King will recover.
Eight mounties made an attempt Jan. 10 to arrest Johnson, but he withstood a 15-hour attack of high explosives and pistol fire.
Frustrated time and again in their rushes on the man's hideout, they left a guard and returned here for provisions, ammunition and additional men.
The police believed Johnson thought he had killed King and was determined not to be captured alive.

They hoped to take him without bloodshed and prepared for a long siege.
GANDHI'S SON ARRESTED
Bombay, India — (A.P.) — Another member of Mahatma Gandhi's famyoungest son, Ramdas, was arrested in the village of Halpura for engaging in Nationalist activities.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.
Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.
Olive Tablets brings no gripping pain or any disagreeable effects.
Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.
Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect, 15c, 30c, 60c.
